PEARSON DEFINES OUR FOREIGN POLICY

Canada's new role on the world scene is outlined by Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs, in a special article in Weekend Magazine today entitled, "This Is Our Foreign Policy."

Million Africans Greet Royal Pair

Queens Opens Three-Week Nigeria Tour After Wild Welcome From Gigantic Crowd

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters). A million Africans roared greetings to Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh beneath a sweltering midday sun today at the start of the three-week royal tour of Nigeria.

The Queen, shaded by a cream parasol and looking cool in a pink-and-white silk dress, drove through the narrow, twisting streets of Lagos in a maroon Rolls Royce.

Queen Elizabeth and the duke arrived by air just before 10 a.m. for their visit to this British protectorate and colony which has never before been visited by a sovereign.

Along part of the 14-mile beflagged route from the airport to government house, the gigantic crowd danced and swayed to the rhythm of African drums.

FORGOT THEIR CARPET TACKS

LONDON (AP) — Even royal arrangements sometimes go astray . . .

Three packages were hurriedly flown out to Nigeria today after officials discovered that they were needed for Queen Elizabeth's tour of that west African colony.

Their contents: Six car shields bearing the royal coat of arms, presentation book and a big box of carpet tacks.

until today "it can proudly claim to be one of the jewels in Your Majesty's realms and territories."

The 63-year-old chief, resplendent in a robe of red, blue and gold, has five wives and 25 children.

FLOWER GIRL FALLS

A little girl who was supposed to hand a bouquet to the Queen was so overcome by nervousness that her legs folded under her and she did a somersault. The Queen quickly grasped the bouquet and the tot scrambled to her feet.

Chief Oka Adeniji-Adela II, whose family has ruled in Lagos for 260 years, told the Queen that the city had reaped the benefits of British sovereignty.

7 in Family Shot to Death

PARSIPPANY - TROY HILLS, N.J. (AP) — Seven members of the William Baver family were found shot to death today in a suburban housing development in this residential community.

Preliminary investigation indicated there had been six murders and a suicide, police said. The youngest of the victims was described as a 20-month-old baby.

Police had no details, but a patrolman said there "were a lot of people lying around."

Fraser Tunnel Possibility, Gagliardi Says

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi said today there is "a possibility" a tunnel will be constructed under the South Arm of the Fraser River.

Commenting on a Vancouver report that a plan for a $30,000,000 tunnel will be presented to the cabinet next week, Mr. Gagliardi said "there have been several suggestions."

He said a report from consulting engineers recommended either a tunnel or bridge.

"And they left it up to me to make a decision," he said.

The South Arm crossing will be a major link in the government's proposed expressway to the U.S. border.

Mr. Gagliardi would not confirm the $30,000,000 price tag.

"I am not aware of any such figure," he said. "It sounds like a bit of fabrication."

Mr. Squire, MLA for Alberni, said the minister of highways last year stated the road would be full 24-foot width, "and now we hear from the contractor they are going to be 18-foot gravel surface roads with 14-foot bunks" (on the logging trucks).

He said the policy of having forest management licence holders build "public" roads is "for the birds."

"This road was going to be part of our provincial highway system," said Mr. Squire. "We were told these firms were the benefactors of the public."

"The people on the West Coast have been waiting for that road since 1890, they gave away half the country to get it, and now they are going to put

PREMIER NIKOLAI BULGANIN . . . told to "show by action . . . really want peace."

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER . . . blames Russians for world tension.

Eisenhower Offers 'Hand of Friendship' In Reply to Bulganin

(UP and AP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower today offered Russia a four-point "hand of friendship" peace plan in turning down a Soviet offer of a 20-year U.S.-Russian friendship treaty.

In friendly but unmistakable language, the President said the proposals in Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter Wednesday "might indeed work against the cause of peace."

"Diplomatic sources here believe the President consulted Britain's Sir Anthony Eden, due to reach New York Monday, before replying to Bulganin. Text of the Soviet premier's letter was wirelessly to Eden aboard the liner, Queen Mary shortly after its receipt in Washington. The White House this afternoon made public Bulganin's message to the President, Eisenhower's reply and the draft of a friendly treaty which the Soviet premier had enclosed. Bulganin proposed that the United States and Russia agree "in conformity with the provisions of the charter of the United Nations to settle all their international disputes by peaceful means."

Eisenhower told Bulganin a "vast change would be effected not only in our relations but throughout the entire world" if there were:

1. "Prompt measures to reunify Germany in freedom within the framework of security . . ."

2. Carried through "our war-time pledge to respect the right of peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live . . ."

3. Mutual opening of Russia and the United States to inspection so that the possibilities of surprise attack would vanish and release of productive power for betterment of mankind "if reductions or armament were made practical."

4. Free exchange of news, information, visits and ideas between the two countries to clear up "the mountain of distrust and misunderstanding" between the two.

Bulganin told the president, "that an improvement in Soviet-American relations is urgently needed. In my opinion this purpose could be served by the conclusion of a treaty of friendship and co-operation between our countries."

"Such a treaty could make provision for the parties . . . to develop and strengthen the friendly relations between the people of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. on the principles of equal rights, mutual respect for state sovereignty and non-interference in internal affairs, and to settle all their international disputes, in accordance with the provisions of the UN charter, by peaceful means alone."

"The treaty might also provide for the agreement of the parties to co-operate in developing and strengthening economic, cultural, and scientific co-operation between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. . . . on the principle of mutual advantage and equality of rights."

Eisenhower, in his letter, asserted that co-operation between the Soviet Union and the United States is natural and desirable despite what he termed "serious disagreements" that have arisen in the course of the cold war.

Asserting that "under existing conditions international tension is fraught with the possibility of breaking the peace," Bulganin said it is more important than ever that disputes between countries be settled peacefully "in harmony with the aims and principles of the United Nations."

"I am genuinely convinced,"

Door Left Open for More Talks

In these and other ways, the president said, the United States is "prepared at any moment to move in a spirit of conciliation."

"May I hope," Eisenhower told the Soviet leader, "from your letter that you, too, are dedicated to these great ends? I shall look forward to receiving a further expression of your views."

Deeds, Not Words, Key to Peace

Eisenhower said in reply that "the present state of international tension" has been brought about by the Russians and "was not prevented by the words of the (United Nations) charter."

"How can we hope that the present situation would be cured merely by repeating those words (of the charter) in a bilateral form?" the president asked Bulganin.

He went on to say: "I wonder whether again going through a treaty-making procedure, and this time on a bilateral basis only, might indeed work against the cause of peace by causing the illusion that a stroke of a pen had achieved a result which in fact can be obtained only by a change of spirit."

Eisenhower then called on the Russians to show by their actions that they really want peace.

The president's message was cabled Friday night to the U.S. ambassador Charles Bohlen in Moscow and delivered personally by him today to the acting foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko.

Truman, Mrs. FDR Ask Israel Arms

NEW YORK (UP) — Former president Harry S. Truman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a joint statement, said today that the shipment of Soviet arms to the Middle East "requires that the United States provide the defensive arms needed by Israel to protect itself against any aggression."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O THOU great Creator, may we be thankful to thee for the winter season. We rejoice in the calm, cold, starry nights, when in immeasurable space we can behold thy creation on its grandest scale. We rejoice, too, in snow covered mountains and valleys, vast stretches reminding us of Thy purity and challenging ours. In worshipful adoration we turn to Thee; in Jesus' name. Amen.

More Snow Forecast For City Sunday

Some of the most treacherous driving conditions of the year faced Victoria and island motorists today as snow fell lightly through the day on streets and roads already chilled by sub-freezing temperatures of the last four days.

Weatherman William Mackie predicted more snow Sunday afternoon and evening.

"Most of our precipitation between now and Sunday night will be snow," he said, "but there may be a little rain at times."

Gonzales Observatory reported 2.3 inches of snow between 4:30 and 10:30 a.m. today. In the same period Patricia Bay Airport checked 0.3 inch; Nanaimo and Comox, traces; and Vancouver, 0.1 inch.

New West Coast Road Dangerous Says MLA

CCF MLA John Squire complained Friday the public will not be allowed to use during the daytime the Tofino-Alberni road now being constructed in part by firms holding forest management licences.

Mr. Squire, MLA for Alberni, said the minister of highways last year stated the road would be full 24-foot width, "and now we hear from the contractor they are going to be 18-foot gravel surface roads with 14-foot bunks" (on the logging trucks).

Tupper Faces 1.7 Million Probe Words

He Can't Predict Date Report Ready

VANCOUVER (CP) — The public inquiry into Vancouver's police force ended Friday before a gallery of only 40 persons.

R. H. Tupper adjourned the 40th session of his royal commission and said that all that remains is for him to draft a report to the attorney-general.

"I will not know until the final day when my report will be ready."

He will have to go through the 1,500,000 words recorded during the 40 public sessions and the 200,000 words of reports turned in by investigators.

Mr. Tupper said he will have to weigh what he has heard from 121 witnesses and what he has read in 144 exhibits since the investigation started seven months ago.

The public hearings ended quietly in contrast to earlier days of dramatic testimony which drew hundreds of persons.

A progression of events led up to Mr. Tupper's appointment as royal commissioner.

TWO SHOOTINGS

First a Senate narcotics committee criticized the Vancouver force for laxity. A series of articles in Flash, a Toronto tabloid, charged corruption in high places.

On June 24 Detective Sergeant Len Cuthbert, named in the Flash stories, shot himself in the police station. He lived.

That night Mayor Fred Hume applied for a royal commission and Attorney-General Robert Bonner appointed Mr. Tupper the following day.

Then followed a parade of witnesses—police, politicians, criminals, reporters, members of the public and cranks.

Harry Whelan, head of the force's uniform branch, shot himself to death in his home before he could complete his testimony and Walter Mulligan—police chief when the inquiry began—was fired at his own request and moved to California without testifying.

Mr. Mulligan left with a libel action pending against Flash and its former reporter, Ray Munro.

CAR HURLS INTO FRASER, RCMP HUNT VICTIMS

YALE, B.C. (CP)—RCMP said Friday they believe someone was in an automobile which plunged 170 feet off a mountain road into the Fraser River.

A note found floating in an eddy by the bank of the canyon read: "Johnny, please get one sweet and sour spare ribs, one sweet and sour boneless pork, one chicken fried with rice and two orders for you and I. Pick up food at the Ding Ho Cafe. Toy will pay for it. I love you. Read at 4 a.m."

The Ding Ho is a drive-in restaurant in Vancouver's Chinatown.

Queen's Equerry

Appointed equerry to Queen Elizabeth during her visit to Nigeria is Maj. J. Aquilino, a native Nigerian who has studied in Britain.

He is first of his race to hold post of royal equerry. During Queen's last tour of Africa a furor was raised when native officials claimed they were not receiving same consideration as whites at state functions.

Asked what outside influences might hinder him, Chiang replied he was referring to Great Britain.

The 69-year-old leader of Nationalist China made these remarks at his suburban home with Mme. Chiang Kai-shek at his side.

He emphasized these other major points:

(1) The forthcoming talks in Washington between Prime Minister Anthony Eden and President Eisenhower may touch on matters relating to the China situation and the talks may adversely affect the Nationalist Chinese government.

At any rate, he expected no good to come of the talks.

CAN'T BE TWO CHINAS

(2) The idea of two Chinas is impossible. If Red China is admitted to the United Nations, then Chiang would order Nationalist China out of the world body.

(3) The offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu would be defended to the death and not one inch would be given up to the Communists.

Chiang emphasized that these islands were part and parcel of the Formosa-Penghu defence complex and were in no way similar to the Tachen Islands which were abandoned about this time last year.

He said Tachen and Nanhai were remote while Matsu and Quemoy were part of the mainland Fukien province.

At this point, Mme. Chiang emphasized there would be no doubt of the president's determination to defend Matsu and Quemoy to the last man.

CONDITION CRITICAL

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Middleweight Robert Perry was listed in critical condition Friday in hospital where he was taken Thursday night after being knocked down in a bout at the Cambria.

Elected to the board of stewards were J. D. Davidson, F. McLaughlin, W. S. Vint, H. C. Young, G. R. Tucker, H. B. Harris, D. Lovey, O. Vogel, F. J. H. Sanders and G. Kraft.

John Paul was elected auditor for the ensuing year. Delegates to Presbytery and Conference, re-elected were S. A. Campbell and W. J. E. Jamieson. Membership was increased by 111 to total of 713 during the year.

Improvements to the buildings and plant planned 2½ years ago progressed in 1955 and further work is contemplated in 1956 which includes a new choir loft and electrification of the Casavant organ.

Triple Punishment For City Motorist

One of the heaviest penalties ever imposed in Greater Victoria police courts for a driving offence was given in Oak Bay on Friday.

Ian Hjorslev, 20, also known as Ian Lake, 1012 North Park, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, fined $500 and prohibited from driving for three years.

He appeared before Magistrate Henry C. Hall on a charge of criminally negligent driving, causing bodily harm to Walter Stanley Moore, 1823 Beach Drive, in a head-on crash early New Year's morning.

Default of the $500 fine will result in an additional two months in prison.

Hjorslev appeared without counsel last Friday, elected to be tried by the police court magistrate and entered a plea of guilty.

Mr. Moore, Moore-Whittington Lumber Co. Ltd. president and sawmill manager, received a broken arm, cracked ribs, chest injuries, concussion and lacerations in the accident at 3:20 a.m. on Jan. 1.

Mrs. Moore, a passenger, suffered facial cuts and a serious knee injury.

ON WRONG SIDE

Court was told last week that Hjorslev was driving south on Beach Drive near Broom when he swerved to the wrong side of the road and forced a car off the road.

He continued around a curve on the wrong side of the road and collided with the Moore car on a straight stretch.

Hjorslev was thrown from his vehicle and suffered cuts, lacerations, abrasions and broken teeth.

Court heard that the young driver had five previous traffic convictions. One was for careless driving, one for driving while suspended, two for violating licence restrictions, and one for an inadequate muffler.

Unruly Class Balks At Chant Lecture

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant attempted to lecture the Legislature on Social Credit monetization Friday, but his class wasn't in a receptive mood.

Mr. Chant hadn't finished the pleasures of a well-earned rest when two new Social Credit MLAs to the House, congratulating the Speaker for being Speaker, and wishing B.C.'s new lieutenant governor well.

Chant said: "Let's get on to funny money." called Liberal Leader Arthur Laing.

"Making light of such important matters does not well become a member of this House," replied the minister.

"Can you cash soap coupons," glibbed Tony Gargrave, one of the most devastating hecklers in the Legislature, the CCF member for Mackenzie.

Mr. Chant remarked that CCF Leader Arnold Webster should be sitting on the government side of the House, for his "somewhat genial criticism" of the Socialists.

But he said Mr. Webster's suggestion that personal and corporation income taxes be raised to provide increased government services "was to be expected in accordance with the socialist party's plans that a government should take over the machinery of production and distribution, even through an ever-increasing insidious tax program to the point of confiscation."

"Socialism must ever look for a victim to fleece," he said.

SPREADS FIRE

Mr. Chant's verbal acrobatics had the House rocking with laughter on occasion. He told Mr. Gargrave that "when the member tries to put out the fire of Social Credit with legal wraps he merely spreads the conflagration."

It was at this point that Mr. Laing asked: "When are you going to say something?"

Mr. Chant told Mr. Laing that during his speech, the Liberal leader had "given this House quite a display of a verbal storm of wind, lightning and thunder, accompanied by but little beneficial rain."

He told Mr. Laing that he and Dr. Larry Giovando, Independent member for Nanaimo-The Islands, had an "indifferent airy attitude to monetary problems as matters of little importance."

"They owe it to the people who elected them to give serious thought to these matters, which are bedeviling the world today," said Mr. Chant.

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

BY TONY DICKSON and IRVING STRICKLAND

Do you think Victoria motorists should have a place of their own to race each other?

Tom Wall, proprietor Wall's Food Market, 1275 Bay: "I think they should be given some place to drive other than on the highways; therefore they would have to have a track. It would be commendable. They should not endanger the public."

Wall

Ted Rushton, baker, 2512 Vernon: "I think they should be given a place to run. They might have a section of road roped off for them once a week where they could race. It would be a lot better than the killing themselves."

Mrs. Marion Barber, housewife, 2631 Cedar Hill: "I favor the idea. They could possibly close off a section of road or make a track. Races should be supervised—the police would be the best for that."

Barber

Fred Freer, butcher, Fernwood Meat Market, 1301 Gladstone: "I see quite a lot of them here (near Victoria High School). If they had a place to race they wouldn't do it on the streets. I've been here 20 years and it's worse now than it ever was the way cars careen around this corner."

Peter McLellan, electrician, 1525 Morrison: "They should have some place other than the highways. It would be a lot better to have them drive on a track than racing on the streets. Of course, the problem would be to have them race off the streets."

McLellan

Mrs. George Thompson, clerk, Fernwood Pharmacy, 1923 Fernwood: "Kids are kids so the safest way would be for them to have a track for races and they could be instructed properly. There is a track in Burnaby where they can do their racing. If they're going to do anything here, that would be the logical way."

Uphill Asks Sunday Sport Green Light

MLA Says B.C. Has Authority

B.C.'s Social Credit government was told Friday it is "clear beyond doubt" it has authority to legalize Sunday sport in Vancouver.

Tom Uphill, Fernie member of the Legislature, said the government has been asked by the Vancouver city council to amend the city's charter to permit athletic sport events on a commercial basis between the hours of 1:30 p.m. and 6 p.m.

"This the government is perfectly entitled to do under the Lord's Day Act," said Mr. Uphill, the oldest member of the Legislature, in years, and in length of service.

He quoted the act: "It shall not be lawful for any person on the Lord's Day except as provided in any provincial act or law now or hereafter in force..."

And he said "the act makes it clear beyond all doubt that granting of the city charter amendment, as requested by the Vancouver city government, is within the jurisdiction of the B.C. government."

SCOFFS AT TEST

Mr. Uphill scoffed at reports the government will test the act in the B.C. Appeal Court first, and if it finds it has the authority to pass such an act, hold a province-wide question on the Sunday sport issue.

"Granting of (Vancouver's) request would not affect any other part of B.C. but Vancouver," he said.

Mr. Uphill told the government that "you can't force people to go to church by legislation," and that Sunday sports would not be at the times of the church services anyway.

Mr. Uphill said that to ask people to vote in a plebiscite, and then not to act on their wishes, was to make of the electors "a laughing stock." And he criticized the action of "the minority opposed to Sunday sport."

He said that "after they have fought, they should not try to quarrel with the wishes of the majority."

Crack Down On Rustlers MLA Urges

Stiffer sentences should be meted out to modern-day cow rustlers in the interior, Frank Richter, Social Credit MLA for Similkameen said Friday.

Mr. Richter told the Legislature of a case in which a Trail contractor—he identified as Ormond Simms—and his son Clayton, had stopped on the road to shoot and butcher a cow and her calf.

They were handed two-year jail sentences, said Mr. Richter, but on appeal, this sentence was reduced to nine months.

"If I were to go to Vancouver and steal property of the same value I might appeal, but my hope of winning an appeal would be about as useless as the life of a snowball in the land of Hades," the MLA said.

He said police in his area are becoming discouraged, and are "reluctant to press charges," because in every instance, cow rustlers have received only light sentences, and those sentences have been reduced by the appeal court.

He said cattlemen hope for stiffer sentences as a deterrent.

Road, Poll Taxes Must Be Paid Now

City tax department, worried by confusion in respect to council action in resolving to repeal road and poll tax pointed out today that the repeal action will not be in effect before Jan. 1 next year.

Road and poll taxes for this year are due and payable Jan. 31, and penalties will be in effect for non-payment.

IN PARLIAMENT

Opposition Criticism Delays Wheat Bill

(From Times News Services)

Day-long Opposition criticism Friday blocked introduction of government legislation to ratify treasury guarantees of bank loans on farm-stored Prairie grain.

Spokesmen for all three opposition parties, debating a government resolution preliminary to introduction of the bill, called instead for cash advances from the Canadian wheat board to meet cash shortages among Prairie farmers.

Trade Minister Howe said such advances would be a "gross misuse" of board funds. In an optimistic statement he forecast record grain shipments from Atlantic ports would clear the board.

Transportation Big Problem

"The big problem is not selling wheat but transportation," he said.

The government's proposed legislation would ratify the plan begun last Nov. 15 by which the federal treasury guarantees bank loans on farm-stored grain up to $1,500 at five-per-cent interest.

The introductory resolution to the bill was not adopted during the period allowed for government business Friday.

500 Million Bushels on Farms

The cash shortage problem was serious. Prairie farmers had nearly 500,000,000 bushels of wheat on their farms for which they could not be paid by the board because they couldn't get it into elevators.

Mr. Argue said the government has never done anything so unpopular among Prairie farmers since 1947 when it put oats and barley back on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Mr. Quelch said some farmers still have not sold any of their 1955 crop, nearly six months after the start of the crop year.

He said most of their farm-stored wheat is already committed under debts to grocers, machinery dealers and others.

Veteran Liberal Raps CCF

Veteran Saskatchewan Liberal Walter Tucker accused CCFers of using smear and Karl Marx tactics against him and the government.

Voices rose noisily. Douglas Harkness (PC, Calgary North) shouted: "Two-tongued Tucker taming the lion."

The battle was on: "I want to develop this point," said Mr. Tucker. He was supporting a government bill.

"Get it right," interrupted C. E. Johnston (SC, Bow River). "Are you speaking as the eastern Tucker or the western Tucker?" asked Mr. Harkness.

Order-in-Council Non-Existent

The government admitted Friday night that an order-in-council reported to have been passed covering the export of 15 Harvard training aircraft to Egypt does not exist.

Trade Minister Howe said earlier this week that the order-in-council was passed last July 7, approving export of the planes under the Canadian Export and Import Permits Act.

Opposition Leader Drew asked Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent at the start of Friday's sitting if the order could be made public before the foreign affairs debate scheduled to start next Tuesday. The prime minister agreed to look for it in the files.

Just before the house adjourned, Howe announced that he had been mistaken. He said no such order-in-council was passed, and none was needed.

Howe said an export permit was granted only after the case had been studied and approved by three departments of government, defence, external affairs and trade and commerce.

A Meeting of Friends

IT IS NONE TOO SOON FOR SIR Anthony Eden and President Eisenhower to confer personally after the events of the last six months. But there is no use expecting much immediate or tangible result from their forthcoming conference. The temporary climate of American politics stands in the way of Sir Anthony's long-term objectives.

He has long sought a new approach to the problem of the Far East and while he, more than any man, is responsible for preventing an outbreak of war there, he has been unable to change official American policy toward China. He believes that the actual facts in Asia should be faced, the real Government of China recognized and seated in the United Nations. But clearly the American Government, whatever it may think privately, is not prepared for this public step at the moment.

An Administration doubtful of the President's ability to run again, and thus confronting a highly doubtful election, will hardly venture to split its party on the issue of recognizing China. The British Government, on the other hand, can afford to do or say nothing which would split the alliance of the free world.

For the time being, therefore, and at least until after the American election, it seems probable that the highly unsatisfactory posture of American policy in Asia must continue. Time, however, may be running out faster than we think.

Just a year ago China had compelled the evacuation of the Tachen Islands, it seemed to be advancing on Matsu and Quemoy and promised to storm Formosa without delay. The world, according to Mr. Dulles, was then on "the brink of war" and was saved only by his policy of strength.

However that may be—and history may not support Mr. Dulles' interesting version—China suddenly ceased to bluster, the Nationalists held the offshore islands, Formosa was not attacked, an uneasy truce settled on Asia and the United States began interminable negotiations with a Chinese Government which it refused to recognize.

No one supposed that this sort of situation could go on indefinitely.

No one can safely assume that China will restrain its ambition to occupy the offshore islands just to suit the convenience of an American Government in an election year.

On the contrary, China has indicated that its patience in this respect is wearing thin. That danger may well be in Sir Anthony's mind when he hurries to Washington at a time when many problems require his presence in London.

If the basic issue of China's position in the world community and the United Nations must be postponed for another year, what happens if China decides to attack Quemoy and Matsu? Will the United States fight for those islands, the obvious property of China?

That question has never been answered in Washington. It has been systematically blurred. If the American Government has made any strategic decision one way or the other it has not been communicated to the American people or, so far as any public record shows, to foreign governments. Presumably the British Prime Minister will seek an answer from the only man who can give it, the President of the United States.

Doubtless he will try also to concert British and American policy in the Near East, where the free world has been caught off guard by the sudden penetration of Russian power. And there are many other problems requiring the kind of candid, personal discussion possible only between chiefs of state.

In any case, the significance of Sir Anthony's visit to Washington will not be lost on the Communists. The two great English-speaking powers may disagree on many details, their unity of purpose may be frequently irritated by irresponsible utterances from statesmen like Mr. Dulles who should know better, but on all basic objectives they are agreed and in the pinch they stand together.

If very little seems to come immediately out of the Washington conference, it symbolizes the most important and hopeful fact of our time—the fact that the core of the grand alliance, the United States and the Commonwealth, is sound and unshakable.

What's in a Name?

CURRENT EFFORTS TO DETERMINE more accurately the authenticity of Shakespeare's works are not likely to disturb the man in the street. This is not to imply that such a man will not be interested in the question. But for the layman the wonder of the literary masterpieces known as Shakespeare's works lies not in the identity of the writer but in the incredible phenomenon of their existence.

He is interested not so much in the signature as in the writings themselves. For the majesty of "Shakespeare's works" lies in the fact that a human being, or even a committee of human beings, could produce within the space of a few years so vast, so penetrating, so sympathetic a study of humanity, with a poetic quality that would make it last for generations, perhaps for ever, and put particles of the text into the daily speech of all men.

Against such a prodigy of achievement the actual name of the author is of secondary importance. Shakespeare, Bacon, Marlowe—these are interesting words, but not essentially important in the matter.

It is only just, of course, that a misnomer, if such exists, should not be perpetuated; that the real writer should receive the tribute that is his due. But the title page must forever remain subsidiary to the glorious wealth that lies within the volume. "Shakespeare's works," whatever individual was responsible for them, still remain the wonder of English literature.

As Our Readers See It

BELOVED BROTHER

The papers have given us vivid descriptions of the visits of the smiling Bulganin and Khrushchev to India, Burma, Afghanistan and so on, but I have not seen, except in Time for Jan. 23, any account of the interesting follow-up in Burma. I think we all should be able to enjoy the story. May I quote from Time:

"As warm and hearty as the welcome of a friendly family toward a beloved brother" was the way Khrushchev described the welcome accorded (them) on their recent visit to Burma. It was an impulsive way to describe the politeness with which the Burmese had borne the visit of the bad-mannered pair, who had used their hosts' most sacred shrines as soapboxes from which to hurl insults at Britain.

"But the Burmese were quick to make equally polite restitution. The Russians were scarcely gone from Burmese soil when an invitation went flying from Rangoon to London urging Britain's last Governor General in Burma, Sir Hubert Rance, to come and spend a happy two-week vacation with his former subjects. When he got to Burma Sir Hubert was awarded the title Agga Maha Thray Sithu, meaning Very High Big Honorable Officer of the King.

"Similarly honored was another servant of Empire, Britain's one-time Laborite Colonial Under-Secretary, Lord Ogmore. And just to show who was who's beloved brother, the Burmese gave the Duke of Edinburgh's uncle, Earl Mountbatten, last Viceroy of India, the highest title of all: Agga Maha Thiri Thu Dhamma, or Very High Big Honorable Follower of the Righteous Path."

SAME OUTFIT

The organization known as the National Federation of Labor Youth (NFLY), the organization that the Britannia Branch of the Legion knowingly rented their premises to for the purpose of raising money ($2,000 B.C. quota) for the Communist Front paper to "continue publication," and known as the Champion, is the successor of the Young Communist League of Canada which was outlawed across Canada in 1940.

All they have done is to change the name of the organization just as the Communist Party of Canada, also outlawed, changed its name to the Labor Progressive Party.

GORGE BRIDGE

Barrie wrote: "Has it ever struck you that the trout bite best on Sunday? God's critters tempting decent men." ("The Little Minister"). Which reminds me that the herring will soon be coming again to the Gorge waters.

As the board walk around the rocks under the Gorge bridge has been re-laid, because it had become unsafe, there will be very little room for the many young boys who look forward to and so enjoy the simple pleasures of catching herrings. It is the one sport of fishing they can undertake without expensive equipment or boats and without adult aid.

But this year, unless something is done, there will be only one small float from which to fish and it is likely to become overcrowded. Many boys will try to fish from the rocks and some may fall in.

Would it not be possible to moor an extra float (surely there are some spare ones) alongside the existing one, and put a rail around as a measure of safety and also on which to rest fishing poles which become very heavy in youthful hands after a couple of hours? I know from many years experience how eager the boys are and what enjoyment they get from a good catch of fresh herrings.

And while I am on the subject, will the Esquimaux Council please put a few benches around on which the many elderly folk can rest a moment and enjoy the lovely views of Selkirk Waters? Wasn't there once a circular bench on the knoll around the arbutus tree, why not renew it?

There is a sheltered recess on the terrace just opposite the float from which an anxious parent could keep an eye on junior. But the benches must be fastened down or some of the young "men" around will throw them into the Gorge waters. Now there is not a single seat anywhere.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

With the Unmistakable Jingle of Bits

VISITORS from the "effete east" or from big cities in the United States probably thought that life in Victoria was very dull and pedestrian in the early years of the century. But looking down the long corridor of years it now seems to me that life was never dull. It was thrilling and exciting for small fry. Hardly a day passed without a shrill boyish voice yelling, "run-away—run-away" as some frightened horse galloped wildly down a dusty street with reins loosely flapping over its back.

These constantly recurring run-aways seldom ended in either damage or injury but were an unending source of excitement for us youngsters.

Indeed, horses played a vital role in those far-off days and the commercial economy of the city revolved around horse-drawn vehicles and moved at the pace of horses.

One of my earliest memories concerns horses and came about through my disobeying mother while very young and making my way down to the post office to meet Dad.

Government Street was crowded with people who lined the sidewalks and shouted out hoarsely and waved flags. There was an air of gaiety and perhaps of a sort of abandon about the crowd which I didn't understand in the least.

Dad and I stood near the corner of Courtenay, opposite Weller's big store and I peered through a forest of legs into the street, still completely at a loss to understand what it was all about.

The shouting increased and everyone seemed so very excited. Of course we stood near the old Bodega saloon and only a block either way from the Windsor and the Brown Jug so perhaps that had something to do with the gaiety of the men. But women were even more excited.

Soon I heard a military band and thrilled to its music. But a greater thrill was in store as I wriggled between knees to get to the curb.

I had heard the unmistakable jingle of bits and the indescribable creak of saddle leather—a sound that still thrills me.

In a moment foam-flecked horses came in view, their dainty feet seeming to barely touch the wood blocks of the pavement. And on each horse proudly rode a uniformed young man.

MAGNIFICENT RIDERS

I was watching the Victoria contingent of mounted volunteers starting off for the Boer War and one of those magnificent riders was a young man named Victor Spencer. He celebrated his 17th birthday at Capetown, serving with the famed Strathcona Horse.

He and the fine family, which had come to Victoria from Wales, were to make their names synonymous with commercial integrity and community service throughout the southwestern portion of this province.

But apart from this memorable occasional horses played an inescapable role in our lives.

Great dray horses from Heaney's stables and other heavy moving enterprises clattered over the city streets, while the brewery teams were things of glory, harnessed in shining leather and dressed with polished brass and colored rings through which the reins passed.

GLEAMING HACKS

On Johnson Street were the big livery stables of H. R. Bray, and Cameron and Caldwell whose C & C gleaming hacks met all ships and stood in patient rows on lower Yates Street to await patrons.

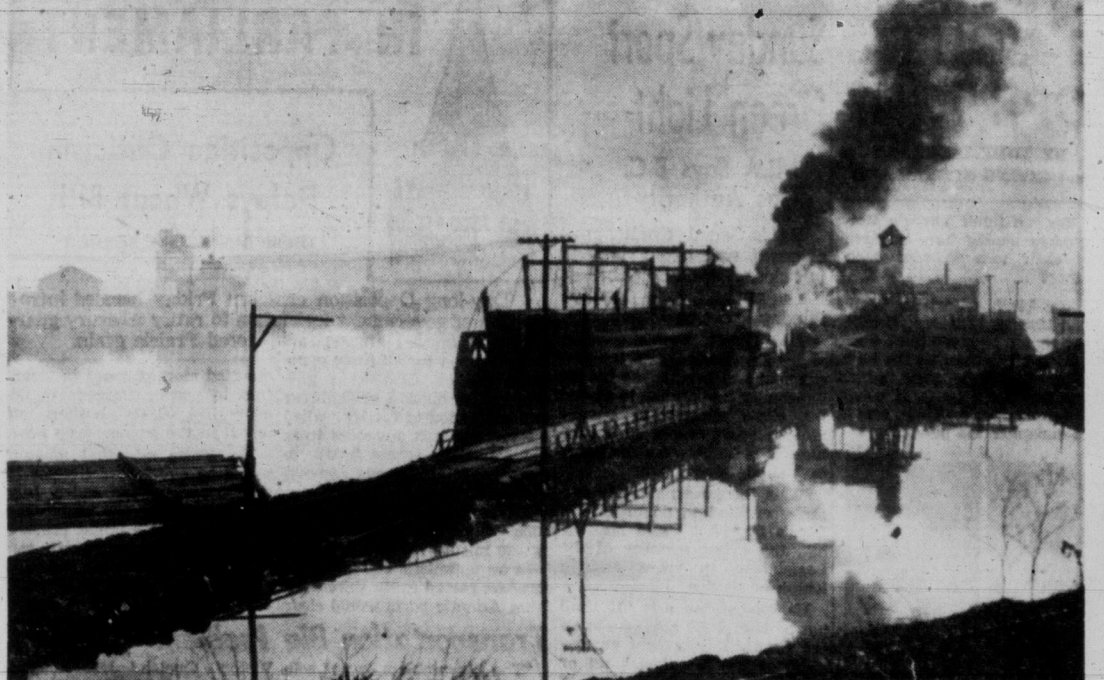

For in the pre-taxi days Victoria's elite either drove their own equipages or hired two-horse hacks for their shopping trips or social rounds. Many Victorians maintained their own stables and a few kept their own coachmen as well.

Then there were the ubiquitous light delivery rigs and "transfer" outfits that trotted around the city on their several errands. These "transfer" rigs also had stands on the streets below Government where they stood awaiting custom.

And, of course, every doctor sported a fine horse and a rubber-tired buggy in which to make his rounds—usually having a small boy to hold the reins while the doctor made his calls.

I remember when old Dr. Ernest Hall would call at our place. He would forget all about his waiting horse—and often forget his patient, too, when he launched on a heated political discussion. Because politics in Victoria in those years really rated as first-class entertainment and the city was extremely politically conscious, as we shall see.

Drowned in Print; a Modern Peril

MR. GERARD FAY, the distinguished London journalist, tells us that his city is physically imperiled by books (even though the intellectual peril is not likely to be serious in these days of television and other super-perior means of communication). Books, it seems, are piling up so fast that the British Museum will soon spread across the literary haven and Parnassus of Bloomsbury. There are just too many books it appears, in London and the world at large. They are swamping us.

MANY housewives no doubt will cheer Mr. Fay. They know that an addition to books, more incalculable than an addition to narcotic drugs, will swamp any household. I am familiar with a household not far from here where books fill every corner, overflow upon the floor, even clutter the bathroom and gather nothing but dust and the mild lunacy of the owner.

As 19,962 new titles were published in Britain last year, and a copy of each was deposited by law in the British Museum, and in many homes as well, it can be seen that the great capital is slowly drowning in a sea of literature. Mr. Fay (himself a hopeless addict and professional bookman) cries out for a life preserver. Alas, no one will rescue him. There is no rescue for any bookman.

NO bookman counts either cost or numbers. The other day, for example, I was in the Haunted Bookshop on Fort Street, looking for certain obscure volumes and, of course, finding them. I was not far from where books fill every corner, overflow upon the floor, even clutter the bathroom and gather nothing but dust and the mild lunacy of the owner.

When I asked the proprietress how many books she had in stock she fixed me with a withering glance and rightly said that such a ridiculous question was unworthy of any reader. However, to satisfy impatient questioners, she threw out the arbitrary figure of ten thousand.

WILL THE TAXES GO UP?

By B. A. TOBIN

Mr. Harris Lists a Bill of Goods

PARLIAMENT'S method of considering public finances is somewhat different from that used by the provincial legislatures. In tabling the main estimates this week Finance Minister Harris was really presenting a prelude to his next budget. It was the opening chapter of a story whose ending we shall not read until later.

What Mr. Harris did was to file estimates of what the Government expects to spend during the coming year. They are not exact figures since each year the Government overpays these preliminary sums and comes back to ask Parliament for supplementary amounts.

Although the listed expenses are now before Parliament there is as yet no hint of how the money for them is to be raised. Such information—the doctor's verdict on how much surgery will be necessary on the taxpayer's wallet—will not be revealed until the budget is brought down in the spring.

Of Most Interest

Naturally, that is the part of the business which is of most interest to the citizen. While he attaches some importance to the size of the bills the country must pay, he is much more concerned with the amount he personally must contribute. The question that will hang over him until budget day, having read Mr. Harris' estimates, is whether the existing tax rates will be enough to carry the load, or will taxes have to go up?

A first glance at the Minister's figures would appear to give an emphatic "yes" to the question of rate increase. Mr. Harris has called for a round $5 billions to be spent on various Government functions.

It looks at this point as though Mr. Harris will spend in the coming year more than Canada has ever spent in peace time. The sum amounts to almost one-fifth of the nation's total production of goods and services.

It is true that in 1943-4, when Canada was at the peak of its war effort, Government expenditures rose to a record $5.3 billions. But that was a major military effort, an emergency of national survival. Today, with the nation at peace, our bill for normal expenditures threatens to come very close to that amount. But there is a new factor in the equation. Our national ability to finance these great expenditures is vastly increased over 1943-4. The volume of Canada's production is greater by one-third. Our population has grown by nearly 30 per cent since the war.

This gives a much broader basis for taxation, a greatly expanded capacity to pay. The earlier expenditures and those of today can thus not be fairly compared without a number of qualifications.

How is the $5 billions made up? The expenses fall into three major groups.

Defence will take $1.8 billions, unchanged from last year. The civil departments of Government will take $1 billion. And $1.6 billions will be expended on debt, pensions of various sorts, and subsidies to the provinces. (The provinces will receive subsidy increases of 10 per cent under the tax rental agreements because of the increase in the gross national product).

Another $379 millions will be paid out in old age pensions, financed from a special tax. Numerous lesser requirements will make up the balance of the $5 billions.

In total, the expenditures will be $11.9 billions larger than in the year that ends next March 31. But it is notable that most of the increase is due not to new services but to expansion of existing ones.

Much of the rise follows naturally from the growth in Canada's population. One example is the $97 million increase in family allowances and similar grants.

It is interesting to note that Canada's expenditure on family allowances alone will be increased by $15 millions to $400 millions. This is not much less than the Government's total budget in the years before the war.

Another sizable item is $37 millions for interest on debt. The increase here is partly accounted for by the Government's own action in raising interest rates as a counter-measure to inflation. The increase in subsidies to the provinces is also automatic as a result of the rise in the gross national product and hence is out of Mr. Harris' control.

A small but significant item is the $9 million increase in Canada's contributions to the Colombo Plan and United Nations assistance. The Colombo Plan at present takes about $26 million.

So much for the expenditures. What of the necessary revenue? Can we expect the present tax structure to provide the needed $5 billions? The prospect is promising.

Mr. Harris, as is well known, has come through a period of marginal recession on a world-wide scale. It was not severe but it was disquieting. By last spring we were emerging from this setback, into the economic boom that still sweeps the nation along at unprecedented speed.

High Production

The past year has been a period of high production levels and big business revenues. But there is a time lag in the Government's income. It receives this year the taxes based on last year's individual and corporation incomes. Hence the 1935 boom has not yet been fully felt in Ottawa coffers. The coming year, (also expected to be a year of record production), will produce tax revenues arising from the present business upswing.

The prospect, therefore, is that no tax increase will be needed. Indeed, a substantial surplus may be shown. If the latter is the case, Mr. Harris will again be faced with a problem. Should he reduce taxes by the amount of the surplus; or hold the tax rate, gather in the surplus and use it to reduce debt?

The former process would encourage inflation by stimulating purchases, and it is believed that Mr. Harris is anxious to avoid such a tax reduction. In addition he has another factor to consider.

The Government's offer of assistance to the provinces to inaugurate a health insurance scheme is not in the current budget, of course, but it looms on the horizon as a heavy potential cost. It is something the Finance Minister will keep in mind in any policy now under preparation.

A Few Cobwebs

THE breath of fresh air which swept through the Supreme Court on Thursday last, in the form of an action for damages arising out of a motorcycle-pedestrian collision (and of this more, perhaps, when the case is concluded), was a welcome relief from the steamy atmosphere of divorce earlier in the week.

I suppose those unfortunate who were obliged to perform the ridiculous ritual which the law insists be performed by couples who wish to end their marital ties are beginning to recover from their nasty experience. Let us hope so. Perhaps they now feel that there was some wisdom in the father who advised his son to do as he had done and remain a bachelor.

This column does not propose to publicize the personal concerns of individuals; and matrimonial matters are personal matters. The law, however, is of public concern; and the law of divorce is something to amaze and disgust the respectable, should they ever trouble to think about it.

The happily married are all too inclined to assume that the misfortunes of others are brought about solely by their own fault, and that to relieve such misfortune in a simple and sensible manner will somehow lower the status of the virtuous.

Most people, if they consider this law at all, shrug it off as they would some natural monstrosity—strange, odd, perhaps unpleasant—but there it is; it has always been there, there must be some good reason for it; so why bother about it?

Such an attitude is a sound one when contemplating the works of God; but our divorce law—vintage 1857—is the work of man and man alone. It has neither divine sanction nor human reason; and it should be reformed. Those who talk of public morality, chastity and decency plainly have never had anything to do with the practical aspects of the matter. Things being how they are, the reported case which follows is, I am sorry to say, entirely fictitious.

Mr. Justice Binnie delivered judgment in the celebrated case of In re Barrell: Barrell vs. Barrell, to a large and enthusiastic crowd in the Supreme Court today. His Lordship said: "In all my 30 years on the bench, I have never had the opportunity of presiding over so delightful a lawsuit as this one, the first of its kind; it is also most gratifying to have the opportunity to deliver a judgment which will become an historic precedent. (A rare opportunity these days, be it known).

"The case involves the dissolution of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Barrell, which, three weeks ago, I would have been obliged to hear as the usual divorce case to my infinite weariness and disgust; however, since that time, Parliament, displaying a degree of wisdom and common sense remarkable in that body, has seen fit to sweep away that tedious archaism, the Divorce and Matrimonial Causes Act. So the Barrells, being desirous of ending an association which has become a burden to both of them, have, with great ingenuity, applied to the court for a dissolution of their marriage under the provisions of the Partnership Act. (At this point an elderly member of the Bar faints and was carried out.)

"The novelty of these proceedings has caused me some concern; but not much. This sensible statute defines Partnership as 'the relation which subsists between persons carrying on a business in common with a view to profit'. Business is defined as 'including every trade, occupation or profession'.

"I do not think that anybody will question my view that marriage is an occupation; but what is profit? One of the meanings given by the Oxford Dictionary is 'advantage, benefit... also excess of returns over outlay'. If successful commerce should be advantageous and beneficial, certainly successful marriage must be. Furthermore, 'excess of returns over outlay' has a wider meaning than the strictly commercial one. There is no doubt that this marriage is a Partnership within the meaning of the Act, and I so hold.

"The Act further provides that this court may decree dissolution of a partnership in certain situations, including 'whenever, in any case, circumstances have arisen which, in the opinion of the court, render it just and equitable that the Partnership be dissolved'. The evidence of both parties has been full and frank and it reveals a long history of discord and frustration. I cannot see that any partnership could possibly continue to be a profitable one under such circumstances. It has long operated, if I may say so, at a loss; there has been no excess of returns over outlay. In my opinion it is just and equitable that the partnership of Mr. and Mrs. Barrell be dissolved, and I so decree."

The spectators gave three cheers for the judge, and the court adjourned.

Everybody Sells Arms

UNITED NATIONS — Although the sale of arms in the Middle East has caused political storms in London and Ottawa, it is not only a national problem. Both the East and the West are engaged in this traffic, which is by no means confined to one area of the world, and thus it is a problem which should be taken up at the United Nations disarmament talks.

Mention has been made of it already in the Disarmament Commission which met this week. This is the parent body of the disarmament sub-committee which consists of the Big Four and Canada, the so-called atomic powers and which negotiates in secret; it was to start this sub-committee on its talks that the Disarmament Commission met.

During the last few months, an extraordinary increase in activity in the arms market has been noted here. Beside some of the deals which have been made, the Canadian sales to Egypt and Israel are of small account.

First and worst of all is the Czechoslovak-Egyptian agreement for the delivery of surplus Soviet bloc equipment, as it is of such a size as to disturb the balance of forces of the countries involved in the Palestine dispute.

EGYPT WELL FIXED

According to reports reaching here, the Czechs have shipped between 150 and 200 jet planes which mean that the Egyptians, when they can fly them, will have the biggest air force in the Middle East. They are also selling, at knock-down prices, some Stalin tanks and guns, and the Israelis claim, half-a-dozen Russian submarines.

The British, to their embarrassment, found that between 150 and 200 old Valentine tanks which they had sold as scrap to a Belgian businessman had been rebuilt and re-armed as self-propelled guns and sold to Israel and Egypt. But what is more alarming, the British have delivered 32 Centurion tanks, which are heavier than any other tanks in the Middle East, to Egypt.

In comparison, the Canadian trade in arms in that area is minuscule: 15 Harvard training planes to Egypt, and some artillery shells to Israel.

At the last Assembly, a Bolivian delegate complained about increased arms shipments to certain Latin-American countries; he said they were disturbing the peace in the area. However, what worries the Americans is that the Soviet bloc is threatening to enter the market, a Russian diplomat made a mysterious trip to Ecuador recently which was believed to be connected with the sale of arms.

Just a few days ago, an astute American observer pointed out that Latin-American armies were used, almost exclusively, for making revolutions and setting up dictators. "Arms have meant mischief in hemispheric history—not defence, not protection of the people," he said. "Arms are used in too many Latin-American countries only to overthrow governments and hold people down."

West Germany has announced that it is going to enter the arms supply field. The West German Economics Minister, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, has said that his country not only wanted to buy arms, but "we also want to sell arms products to other countries and there are many branches in which we are very well qualified to do so."

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—The southern interior of B.C. will remain cloudy with a few snow flurries today. However, in the north it will remain mostly clear and very cold. Temperatures dropped to 25 below in the Cariboo and Prince George districts Friday night and may drop another 10 degrees tonight. Along the coast there is some conflict between a surface layer of cold air from the interior and over-riding moist air from the Pacific. This will result in occasional snow showers today that should be less active Sunday. Little change is expected in general cloudiness and cool temperatures.

The Man They Love to Heckle

On Friday, Minister of Public Works and first member for Victoria, Mr. W. N. Chant, made his first speech in the Legislature since joining the cabinet—and half the House got into the act.

Mr. Chant was not talking about his department. Discussion of that will come later. The Victoria member took it upon himself to answer critics of the Social Credit movement and the government. He seemed to enjoy the task. The enjoyment wasn't unanimous.

Monetary theory pours out of Mr. Chant like water from a faucet. When the opposition expressed its disagreement by heckling Mr. Chant, with a certain condescension, charged members with ignorance. The reply seemed convincing enough to him.

The Victoria member can be a clear and lucid speaker. On money he becomes too fluent. The presentation comes in such an unbroken flow it doesn't mean much to the average listener.

Liberal leader, Mr. Laing, isn't impressed by the minister. "Let's get along to 'funny money,'" he called. That turned out to be the end of the matter.

But not before Mr. Chant had told Mr. Laing that if the Liberals "were God you might be right the first time—but you're not."

To which Prince Rupert's Bruce Brown replied: "It's Social Credit which established that relationship."

For a while the cross-chat almost obscured Mr. Chant's case, though not his good humor or his attitude of authority.

Briefly he discussed monetization and raised the question from Mr. Laing. "What to the Government say about all this nonsense?"

Premier Bennett joined the party to shout "What about Gerry McGeer?"

It wasn't a very profitable discussion even when Mr. Chant came out for bomb-proof shelters as the best defence against attack here. In peacetime, he said they could be used for off-street parking.

A Mellowing Veteran

Earlier the House had listened to Fernie's Tom Uphill, one-man legislative Labor Party and a mellowing Rabelais. Tom still throws in the quips, but there's a friendliness about them that takes the edge even off his sharper remarks. He tells the premier that he, Tom Uphill, believes him, "not like some in this house." He knows Mr. Bennett is the wizard of frenzied finance and he'd like to see him double the bonus to old age pensioners. The province's economy could stand it.

Mr. Uphill is also for Sunday sport as sought in Vancouver—not that he doesn't go to church, but he's interested in seeing the will of the majority prevail.

Mr. F. X. Richter, Similkameen, took the members out on the range in a discussion of cattlemen's problems. He's a very earnest man, wants people to know that the grass-fed beef from his district is tops, even if some housewives don't like the looks of the yellow fat around its cuts. That's good stuff, that yellow fat, an essential of a balanced diet.

Unlike many Social Crediters, he didn't begin his speech with high praise to the government. Instead he said he'd hoped for

REGIONAL MUSEUMS AIM OF INTERIOR MEMBER

Regional museums should be located in various areas of B.C. to preserve relics of the past, Similkameen MLA Frank Richter told the Legislature Friday. He said the only protection given Indian relics, "and small articles left by our ancestors," is when an individual starts a collection.

He said regional museums could be established for a limited amount of money.

Burns' First Honored 6 Years After Death

St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society's 96th annual "Burns Night" was held Friday at the Empress Hotel.

Approximately 200 society members gathered, many in traditional kilts, to honor the "immortal memory" of Scotland's greatest poet.

His memory was first toasted on January 29, 1802, six years after his death, at a dinner in Mrs. Galt's Tavern, Greenock. The dinner was arranged by the Greenock Burns Club, first in the world.

Robert Burns was for the first time in history mentioned as "the greatest national poet" by Sir Walter Scott at the dinner held at Dumfries, in 1822.

Pipe majors J. R. Marrs and Ian Duncan piped in the haggis, born by Ronald Marrs and escorted by Jasper Craig and John Robertson. Address to the haggis was given by past president Thomas Wallace.

Introductory remarks were by society president Mrs. Betty

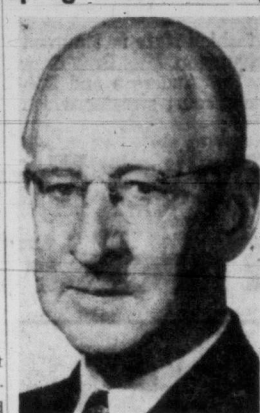

Marrs, while address to Burns' memory was by Gordon Sutherland.

The grand march was held at 9 p.m. and dancing proceeded until midnight, with Mr. Robinson master of ceremonies.

Youngest guest present was killed Scottish-born Ronnie Chisholm, 15, who lives on East Saanich Road. The grade nine Mount Newton pupil was emphatic when he said:

"I never saw haggis in Scotland. And there's more Scots dancing here than there."

B.C.'s Attack On Soil Erosion Held Inadequate

Frank Richter, Social Credit MLA from interior Similkameen riding, Friday criticized his government's attack on the problem of soil erosion.

Quiet-spoken Mr. Richter said that rather than clear new land, "we must adequately protect the lands we are now exposing. We must stop the waste of agricultural land the province now has."

He said the "whittling away of our farm lands" can be halted by a progressive government plan, and that "proper legislation must be drawn up."

"This matter is very, very serious, and every consideration should be given it," he said.

Two of the CCF's young men, Mr. John Squire of Alberni and Mr. Frank Howard of Skeena, made their contributions to the debate—proving again that their party is well supplied with competent young speakers who study the problems they discuss.

A pilgrimage to Lourdes, France, and other European religious shrines is planned in mid-1958 for Roman Catholics of the Victoria diocese, it was announced today.

The year 1958 was chosen as a pilgrimage year as it marks the 100th anniversary of the apparition of the Virgin to St. Bernadette.

Present arrangements call for departure from Victoria in May. A 35-day tour has been temporarily adopted to include England, France and Italy.

Numerous inquiries have been received within recent weeks from persons interested in such a tour. Persons wishing to participate are asked to send their names immediately to Rev. M. O'Connell, 740 View.

George Does Expected -- Gains Three Finals

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

The coffee had long since served its usefulness, and the Canadian Pacific Railway timetable showed the next town to be Basso.

The name sounded vaguely familiar. Two cute tricks, even to the unpracticed eye quite obviously air force career girls in civvy disguise, mounted the stairs to the dome observation car.

Bassano? There was something from the past that tugged at memory.

Two aircraftmen, apparently eager to exemplify the air force motto that "all ranks should work together," passed up the same stairs in pursuance of that aim.

Bassano? Wasn't that the place where Mark Marquess got stranded overnight during last year's WHL playoffs because of heavy snow drifts? Yes, but there was more. Referee Eddie Powers of the Western Hockey League butted his cigarette and commented to coach Eddie Olson of the Cougars:

"You know, I shouldn't be seen talking to you."

Being? The bell rang, which is more than it did for the aircraftmen.

For wasn't it columnist Jim Coleman who once wrote an opus on the past and Bassano, and the place it held in hockey's folklore?

The recollection was that back around 1910, give or take a year, Bassano was battling Calgary to become the gateway to the golden west.

The CPR had a place in the picture, deciding to build a dam there.

Era of the Quick Buck and Fast Shuffle

This was the era of the quick buck and the fast shuffle, and the real estate quickies had a slogan for it:

"Bassano—Best in the West by a Dam-Site."

Naturally, an intense rivalry with Calgary was born. And the need for a good hockey team was imperative.

On this particular occasion, Bassano was the host, and many a fin had been waged on the result.

Into overtime the teams battled, and a 20-minute extra period was declared.

When Bassano scored in the first two minutes, a wily member of the risky set craftily produced a knife and cut the belt operating the lights. The arena was plunged into darkness.

Bassano claimed victory, but Calgary refused to leave the ice until the lighting equipment had been repaired and the game completed.

'Twas a Sad Night for Bassano

It was a sad night for Bassano when Calgary went on to score two goals and win the game. But it wasn't that sad that the Bassano bunch, poor losers that they were, didn't have one more trick up their sleeves.

The Calgary club was gaily celebrating its victory, as celebrants do, when suddenly the game referee was shoved up to the bar by grim-faced Bassano citizens.

Needing no further prodding than what he had already received, the official said his lines well.

He declared all bets off because the game had not been completed within a stipulated time limit.

As the referee's word was law in those days, the rest can be left to the imagination.

Just as there is no record of what eventually became of this official.

The moral of the story is that Bassano is not even a whistle stop for the "Canadian" now, while Calgary has grown to be a prosperous city.

The Air Force? We dunno! Two Army corporals showed better training.

Paul Cameron Signed To Play for Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Paul Cameron, former brilliant half-back with UCLA, has signed to play with the Western Interprovincial Football Union, the club announced here Friday.

The six-foot, 190-pound half-back, considered one of the best football players ever turned out at UCLA, will be discharged from the U.S. Army Aug 1 after a two-year stint.

General manager Phil Webb of the Lions said Cameron will miss B.C.'s training camp this summer, but the club "is not too concerned about that."

TEAL STARS; NEW PLAYERS DUE

Cougars Click On, Off Ice

Victoria 5, Saskatoon 3

By Bill Walker

Victoria Cougars, who haven't been beaten at home this year, scored a triple here Friday night.

First, they topped the Saskatoon Quakers, 5-3, for their sixth win in their last eight games, and their fifth unbeaten game at home since New Year's Day.

Secondly, they acquired what they had been looking for, a right winger.

And thirdly they showed in centre Skip Teal a fellow who deserves more notice than he has been receiving. Much more.

In addition, as a bonus, they will use centre Howie Hornby of the Kamloops Elks in their next three games, starting tonight at Seattle.

Hornby, who has accumulated 39 points on 14 goals and 25 assists for Kamloops, will be used on a three-game trial basis. He was with the club prior to the start of this season.

In Friday's Western Hockey League triumph at Memorial Arena before a sparse smattering of 2,580 fans, surprisingly low in view of the club's recent success, the Cougars proved they can do it the hard way.

Unscored upon in their previous three games at home, the Cats spotted Quakers two goals early in the first period and then pressured their way to a 3-2 edge before the initial period was over to take a lead they were never to relinquish.

CARMICHAEL DUE

The newest Cougar is husky Bruce Carmichael, formerly of the Vancouver Canucks. With Nelson of the WHL last year, Carmichael was recalled from the Canucks by the New York Rangers to make room for Tom McCarthy, formerly of Saskatoon. He comes to the Cougars on loan.

Carmichael scored 12 goals and had 16 assists for the Canucks this year, and was described by Saskatoon coach, Jim Ross, a "good looking prospect."

Ross, incidentally, praised the Cougars for their hustle in Friday's win, and their general all-round play despite the absence of two players, centre Doug Anderson and rookie Paul Strasser.

"Your club's going good," he said. "They deserved the win."

Bob Carmichael, however, pointed to enemy goalies the past two weeks, continued his sharp-shooting Friday to pace the Cougars with two goals, his 17th and 18th of the season.

He has scored eight goals in the last nine games.

Quakers showed their intentions early, and belied their last place position in the eastern division of the WHL.

Bob Carmichael intercepted an attempted pass-out by Arnett Whitney to race in and blast the puck through Marcel Pelletier's legs at 3:42. It was the first goal scored against Pelletier at Memorial Arena since Ed Stankiewicz of the Flyers tallied at 8:18 of the third period of the Jan. 2 game.

Don Raleigh, the Quakers' newest acquisition from Providence of the AHL, gave Quakers their 2-0 lead, when he slid the puck under Pelletier's pad on a pass from Bill McCreary, another former Providence player.

Trked by this situation, the Cougars struck back and struck hard.

Teal, after claiming one shot had entered the net, broke Emil Francis' spell at 13:28 with Saskatoon's Chrystal serving a penalty.

OLSON CONNECTS

Little over a minute later coach Eddie Olson netted the equalizer on a scoring play from in front. Don Chupka doing the heavy work to spring Olson loose.

Captain Colin Kilburn put the Cougars ahead with a blistering shot at 17:48 and the Quakers' bid for their first win in 10 games was on the wane.

Apparently, under orders from league president Al Leander to crack down and crack down early, referee Eddie Powers read the fine print in the first period by assessing eight penalties.

His objective attained, the players took heed from there on, and a fast, clean game was the result.

And it was on a fast break by Jim Robertson, from his own blue line, that the Cougars jumped their margin to 4-2.

Robertson skating in unblemished to beat Francis at 14:54.

ALMOST A HAT

Teal got his second at 14:05 of the third and barely missed the hat trick a few moments later.

Saskatoon's final tally came late in the final period when Eddie Kobussen drilled a screened shot by Pelletier.

Still trailing Vancouver by five points as a result of the Canucks' 4-1 win over Brandon, the Cougars can close ground on the leaders nevertheless this weekend with their double date at Seattle tonight and Sunday.

Calgary Stampede make their final appearance of the season here Tuesday.

Cougars hope to have Anderson, ill with influenza Friday, back in harness tonight, but Strasser is apparently out for at least two weeks. His injured eye is still causing concern.

Sands Falls in Race; U.S. Pucksters Near Final

(Compiled From CP, AP and UP)

CORTINA, Italy—Canada's vanquishing hockey team rested up this morning ready for a battle with Italy, while Russia pulled away to a commanding lead in the 1956 Winter Olympic Games.

The Russians chalked up a world record performance in the 500-meter speed skating in which three Canadians competed, and won another gold medal in the women's 10-kilometer cross-country ski race.

Canada, which triumphed 23-0 against Austria Friday for its second hockey victory and gained the championship round, was expected to have little trouble beating the Italian team, Johnny Mayasich of Eveleth, Minn., scored twice to lead the United States to a 4-0 victory over Poland today, the first for the Americans in the Olympic hockey tournament.

The win almost assures the U.S. of a berth in the six-team final round beginning on Monday. The Americans lost their other game to Czechoslovakia, and the United States will enter the finals.

But all eyes turned to the Russians, as events got underway on the slopes near the Italian alpine town today.

Evenly, Grishin, 28-year-old Russian jeweler, shaved six-tenths of a second off the last world 500-meter speed skating mark when he raced to victory in 40.2 seconds on Lake Misurina. He had skated the distance in the same time last Sunday but the feat was disallowed because of a technicality. Today's mark is expected to be recognized.

Lubov Kozyreva earlier had provided Russia with its first gold medal in this year's classic by winning the 10-kilometer (6.2-mile) women's cross-country ski race. The hardy 37-year-old blonde made her way over the undulating course in 38 minutes and 11 seconds.

Lamberto Dalla Costa, a daring Italian air force jet pilot, guided his two-man bobsled to victory and provided his nation with its first gold medal in an event marked by a freak accident to brakeman Ed Seymour of the No. 2 American sled.

Seymour, who comes from Rochester, N.Y., suffered a dislocated ankle and severely torn ligaments in his right knee when the sled driven by Art Tyler struck a deep rut in the Cristallo curve and his leg was wedged against the sled shell.

Canadian speed skating old world mark of 40.8 set by entries fared poorly today, his countryman, Yuriy Sergeev, placed Canada's leading hope for a fourth today in 41.1 behind Grishin, Raphael Gratch of Russia and Alvi Gjestvang of Norway. Gratch, who equaled the Helmut Kuhnert of Germany, old world record last Sunday, again was timed in 40.8 today.

In bobsledding, Italy swept the first two places, the team driven by Eugenio Monti finished second.

X-rays taken at the hospital showed Seymour suffered a dislocated right ankle and severely torn ligaments in his right knee. There were no broken bones, however. The husky 43-year-old sledder's leg was placed in a plaster cast.

Dalla Costa and his brakeman, Giacomo Conti, cascaded down the icy, one-mile Olympic chute in runs of 1:22.95 and 1:22.74 to win the championship with a combined time of 5:30.14 for the four heats. The first two heats were run off Friday.

Red-haired Monti piloted his sled in runs of 1:23.37 and 1:22.82 for a combined clocking of 5:31.43. Italy's triumph was the most smashing since the Swiss won the first two places in the 1948 winter games.

A combination of years of experience, plus a new technique closest rival. Italy was second of using lighter men and a heavier sled, were responsible for the Italian victory.

WHL Leaders Roll On

By The Canadian Press

Vancouver 4, Brandon 1; Calgary 5, Edmonton 3.

Nothing succeeds like success, the adage goes, and the Western Hockey League is a prime example.

The rich got richer and the poor got poorer in Friday night action when Vancouver Canucks western leaders and the Prairie division's leading Calgary Stampede marked up victories.

The Stampede, playing in Edmonton, came from behind to score a 5-3 victory over third-place Flyers. Four Calgary goals came in the second period.

Vancouver maintained its five-point lead over Victoria with a 4-1 decision over Brandon Regals in Brandon, where 3,096 fans braved blizzard conditions to attend. Les Lilley, Ray Cyr, Fred Brown and Gord Hudson scored for Vancouver. Ray Manson robbed goalie Ray Mukulian of a shutout in the third with Brandon's only goal.

Times Offers $100 Prize For Curling Eight-Ender

That dream of every curler, scoring an eight-ender, has been given added lustre by the Victoria Daily Times.

The Times will present a $100 prize to any rink scoring an eight-ender in regular league draws or in bonspiel play at Victoria Curling Club.

An eight-ender is very rare. Only once has it been scored in the three-year history of the VCC. It can be compared in its rarity to a perfect no-hit, no-run game in baseball or a perfect game in bowling, but more so.

The man that did the near-impossible at VCC was skip Hugh Renfrew, whose rink chalked up the maximum eight points in one end against Ed Etches and his rink in Commercial League play last year.

And the best time to start shooting for that $100 will be just over a week from now, when the 61st B.C. Bonspiel opens at the Victoria Curling Club, Feb. 6-11.

There will be lots of competition. Up to Friday, a total of 58 rinks have entered the 'spiel's six events, to be run off in conjunction with B.C. Consols finals. With five days left until entries close Feb. 2 at 1 p.m., and curlers' notorious late-comers, a total of 90 rinks is expected.

Four of the eight-zone finals in the Consols events are yet to be named. Representatives already declared include Tony Gutoski of Victoria for zone one, Vancouver Island; J. Jordan of Kimberley for zone four, Kootenay East; Dick Topping of Osoyoos, for zone five, South Central, and Bill Hoffman of Chilliwack for zone eight, Fraser Valley.

Still to be heard from are zone two, Vancouver Lower Mainland; zone three, Kootenay West, where B.C. champion for 1955, Reg Stone of Trail meets Len Peerless of Nelson Sunday in the final; zone six, North Central and zone seven, North.

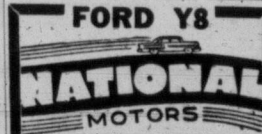

Besides the Times' cash award, the imposing prize list for the six events of the 'spiel will be enough to keep curlers on the broom. The list is headed by the Dominion Hotel Challenge and Colonist Challenge primary events, each having a TV set as the main prize.

Other first prizes include wrist watches for the Eaton event; mantle clocks for the Ker & Stephenson event; TV chairs for the Daily Times event and Ayerloom blankets for the Hudson's Bay event.

Grand aggregate winners will receive carving sets and medals, while the Consols winners and runners-up will receive silver serving trays.

Club draw will close Wednesday, Feb. 1, to allow time to spray, flood and paint the ice before the bonspiel starts. Leading the sections into the final five days are:

A1, McIntosh with 42 points; A2, McCutcheon with 38 points; B1, Hole with 34 points; B2,

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY
Denny Boyd

One week ago, a cold and soggy Saturday afternoon, the Victoria Strathconas brightened the dull skies with the most sparkling demonstration of soccer that has been turned in hereabouts in many a football moon.

In whopping the nasty old Vancouver Pilseners, the Strathconas took the covers off a dashing, short-passing attack that had old-time fans like Dave Turner smashing their hats in enthusiasm.

The man responsible for the rebirth of the Strathcona team, Willie Hamilton, says in his soft, Scottish burr, "Aye, the lads are doin' pretty well but they can do a lot better. The material definitely is there. They're a good bunch of lads. They pay attention and they'll be told."

The short-passing attack has been inculcated by the former Preston North End and Queen of the South player because, "That's the old Scottish game. Play the spaces," and is in direct contrast to the old kick-and-run game played without marked success by a long line of Victoria teams.

Cedric Robb, who ranks with any outside right in the Coast Soccer League, has improved tremendously under the sage tutelage of Hamilton. It used to be that Robb's blistering speed was his own downfall as he frequently ran away from passes. But now, Hamilton says, "We've got the lads putting the ball in front of him. Ced's a strong boy and he's hard to move off the ball. He's a fine boy, is Ced."

As regards the new summer league, Hamilton says, "We'll be a hard team to beat."

And if, as rumored, the mainland teams purchase import talent from the Old Country... Well, as Willie says, "I've told the lads, these imports have one weakness. They've only got two legs, just like us."

Seen in Passing—Gorgeous George seated in a local bistro, sipping delicately from a coffee cup which contained double portions of rye and water. The Gorgeous One's valet, in proper subservience, was sitting at a separate table.

There is only one thing that could mar this proposed amalgamation between the Pilseners and Indians. The last time two lacrosse teams merged, the union was between the Salmonbellies and the Adanacs and the clubs decided a compromise on Salmonas for a name. The horrible possibility is that Pilseners and Indians could become the Pildians. Ugh!

Having just taken a look out our window at the North Ward school ground lunch hour activities, we submit that 17-a-side basketball has its entertaining points. One of the mainland lacrosse players the Victoria Shamrocks are looking at with covetous eyes is a husky 20-year-old who scored three goals against the Irish in one particular game last season. Three local hockey families recently added rookies from the maternity league. Assistants are credited to Pappas Neil Standley, Bernie Strongman and Roy Remy.

They'll miss Gerry McManama out at Victoria Golf Club in the summer when the time comes around for the Senior Northwest Golf Association Tournament. The good-natured, stocky Seattle golfer always lent a touch of humor to the tournament and his bantering with other old-timers, like Ralph Whaley and Ed Eisenhower kept galleries amused these many years. "Respect those short putts," was Gerry's advice to all golfers.

Arrows Tie Sooke Cagers

Ronnie Benn poured in 28 points Thursday night to lead Arrow Furniture to a 60-60 tie with Sooke in the first game of a two-game total point Saanich and Suburban Basketball League playoff series.

The clubs will start afresh next Friday night at Brentwood Hall as they attempt to break the deadlock and decide a series winner.

Ralph Anderson was second in the scoring total for Arrows, with 17 points, all of them scored in the second half.

For Sooke, Lou McCorkell and J. Kabata scored 14 points each and R. Pimlott scored 12 before he and Arrows' W. Benn were ejected from the game for deliberate fouling.

ON THE ALLEYS

Buzz Mauls Maples Best

High scores were the rule rather than the exception in local fivepin circles this week. No less than eight series over the 800 mark were recorded as small-ball artists mauled maples in torrid fashion.

Top rung on the ladder went to Buzz Morgan who felled fivepins for a total of 863 in a three-game set at Gibson's. He also checked in a 388 single in the series.

Close behind was Capital City's Ron Cuth with an 862 (325) effort. Esquimalt's Ken Bendall stole some of the limelight with an 859 triple, which included big games of 316 and 300.

Other leaders were Phil Smith, 812 and Bill Peterson, 811, at Capital City; Tom Wilson, 805 (331) at Esquimalt, and Mal Mackenzie, 803 (354) at Gibson's.

Other highs at Gibson's were racked up by Al Ma-

Jorki, 799 (301); I. Brawn, 798 (305); Wilbur Webb, 787; Lew White, 783 (358); Phil Smith, 775 (345); Sheldon Nipp, 775; Eric Ware, 764 (305); Larry Griffin, 751 (308); Pete Turko, 741 (309); Will Bates, 740 (301); Bill McKinnon, 723; Cy Wallis, 703; Ken Jones and Ernie Sandahl, 701.

Rod Graft notched a 336 single. Percy Riddle claimed a 329 and John Schapansky came in with a 305.

Ken Smith, 782; Joan White, 759 (325); Jim Nott, 757 (309); Ron Smith, 743; Des Nex, 721; Pat Anderson, 717 (300); Al Miller, 712; Stan Bell, 707; Howie Butler and Dick Bowles, 701, and Gerry Brown at 700 also led at Capital City. Ivy Devine fired a 324 singleton.

Tony Bishop, 762; Joan White, 760, 718; Worsley, 739; Frank Gibbons, 733; Lorne Harper, 724 (304); G. Scott, 724; Harry Young, 721 (301);

TIME OUT!

"You needn't overdo it, Hanson! We're convinced you're good enough to make our Olympic team!"

Cherberg Dismissed By Huskies

SEATTLE (AP)—Johnny Cherberg, centre of a player revolt that began in November, was dismissed as head football coach at the University of Washington Friday.

The dismissal was announced by athletic director Harvey Cassill after a conference with Cherberg. He said the dismissal is effective immediately.

Cassill said he took the action under authority given him by the university board of regents at a Dec. 10 meeting at which time it was decided to retain Cherberg. The regents then gave Cassill authority to deal with the situation as he saw fit in the future. The regents agreed to continue Cherberg's employment upon the coach's assurance that difficulties with the football program could be resolved amicably.

Cassill said it was his "considered judgment" that Cherberg had not satisfactorily resolved the problems which existed in December. He said it appeared that the turmoil, rather than subsiding, was increasing, causing damage to the reputation of the university not only in the athletic area but as a whole.

Middlecoff Shares Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, with a brilliant display of iron shots, pulled up even with Jimmy Demaret at the 36-hole mark of the $15,000 Thunderbird invitational golf tournament Friday, each with a 133 total.

Middlecoff toured the par 36-35-71 Thunderbird Country Club course in 35-31-66, and Demaret, the first-round leader, with a gallant comeback on the back nine, posted 37-32-66.

Jimmy had a 64 Thursday and Middlecoff a 67. The two go into the third round today with a two-stroke lead over their nearest challenger, Doug Ford, whose 69 gave him 135. Tied at 136 were Julius Boros, with a 70, and Bill Ogden of Chicago with a 68.

The championship field, meanwhile, slumped down to four survivors as the women amateur players shot two rounds.

In other quarter final matches, Joanne Goodwin, Dartmouth, Mass., defeated Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, 5 and 3; Cookie Swift Berger, Buffalo, N.Y., beat Wannie Sanches, Baton Rouge, La., 4 and 3, and Janie Dobbin, St. Louis, defeated Charlotte Decozen, Miami Beach, 2 and 1.

Basketball Playoff Set at Saanichton

Saanichton and Brentwood amateur boys will tangle tonight at 8 at Saanichton Agricultural Hall to decide who meets Sooke in the Vancouver Island amateur basketball final.

Brentwood leads the two-team total point series by one point.

In an exhibition game at 8:30, Saanichton Copley Brothers junior girls will meet Victoria Meteors.

By RON COULTER

Phil Young, 704, and Bill Smith, 703, claimed notable efforts at Esquimalt. Vern Fillman scored a 316 single.

Tops for topfingers was veteran Cec Dixon with a 593 (225) effort in Gibson's senior action.

Bill Odgers, 591 (221); Nick Howard, 571 (238); Len Murran, 564 (216); Connie McBeth, 562 (206), and Will Bates at 559 chalked up other top three in senior league.

Cliff Morgan, 222; Bill Stevenson, 217; Jim Ferrie, 210, and Fred Welsh and Bud Marty, 201, hit for notable singles.

In commercial action, Herb Chandler, 587 (201); Bud Falk, 582; Ron Coulter, 566

Landy Does It Again; Runs Mile in 3.58.6

MELBOURNE (AP)—John Landy, lanky Australian school teacher who last year virtually decided to give up running for good, made the once fabulous four-minute mile look just humdrum today.

For the third time since he set the world record of 3.58 at Turku, Finland, on June 24, 1954, Landy burst through the four-minute barrier here today to win the Victorian state mile in 3.58.6—the second fastest mile on record.

Since Britain's Roger Bannister ran the first four-minute mile just over two years ago, what was once regarded as the unattainable goal of the track and field world, has been reached eight times in five races.

Bannister did it twice—the second time when he beat Landy in the "mile of the century" at the British Empire Games in Vancouver, in August, 1954.

THREE IN SAME RACE

Last May three men—Hungary's Jozsef Tabori and Britain's Chris Chataway and Brian Newson—all did under four minutes in the same race at London's White City.

Landy's achievement today capped an outstanding comeback after a year away from the track. It was his third success in his comeback series and the first time the mile has been run in less than four minutes in Australia.

Merv Lincoln, who finished second to Landy today, was timed in 4:06.5, good enough to put him among the top 10 milers of the world.

Lincoln gave Landy a fight, staying just behind until Landy moved away near the finish.

Landy said later he was only "reasonably satisfied" with his time.

"It was a good run but it was not what I wanted to do," he told a reporter.

"To win the Olympics I must be able to run a mile in 3.55 or 3.56. I was trying to anticipate today what will be needed then. I have come so far now I must keep on, but this time today can easily be duplicated overseas."

"My time today can easily be equalled by European runners in their good conditions, but for the Games, they will have to run here, too. Anyway, I am certain I can do better here."

Marlene Rallies To Gain Quarters

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Marlene Stewart of Southill, Ont., trailing by three holes with only six left to play, rallied to beat Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Fla., 2 and 1 in the quarter-final round of the Helen Lee Doherty golf tournament Friday.

The championship field, meanwhile, slumped down to four survivors as the women amateur players shot two rounds.

STEEL PIPE SHIPPED TO B.C.

Trade between Britain and British Columbia received a big boost when Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. ordered 75,000 tons of 30-inch welded steel pipe valued at $12,000,000 from the South Durham Steel and Iron Co. at Stockton-on-Tees. Picture shows the pipe being loaded aboard Ss. Germa at Middlesbrough, due at Vancouver Feb. 13. After unloading, the pipe will be shipped to points in the Fraser Valley for laying this spring. Canadian Bechtel Ltd. is agent for Westcoast Transmission.

Cassiar-Stewart Mining Road Discussed by Lands Minister

Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers said Friday he is satisfied with construction of the Cassiar-Stewart mining assistance road, "except for some construction at the start."

In reply to questions on the legislative order paper by Liberal Bruce Brown, of Prince Rupert, Mr. Sommers said no tenders had been called to date on the 350-mile road through B.C.'s north.

Construction is on an equipment rental, and cost-plus basis, he said. Mr. Sommers did not elaborate on the cost-plus details, but it is learned the contractors received 10 per cent over operating costs.

FULL INVESTIGATION

Liberal and CCF groups in the House have discussed the road in caucus, and there are indications they will press for a full investigation by a House committee.

Mr. Sommers said about 20 miles of the road is considered up to standard, and 16 per cent narrower, "all on good location."

Since the job was started in 1947, the road has cost $1,700,000 plus, the minister said. He did not explain the "plus." He said the original road by McDame Creek was built by Moccasin Mines Ltd. and that when "extensive improvements were needed, there was no time to make detailed surveys, obtain the road, and amount they have specifications, or call for tenders," he said.

CALL FOR TENDERS

Mr. Sommers said that because of muskeg, permafrost, and other unpredictable factors in northern construction, contractors would have to "protect themselves when bidding."

He said recommendations from consulting engineers will be obtained before a decision is made on whether to call for tenders for 1956 construction.

Traffic Survey

Downtown

Set by Chamber

Victoria Chamber of Commerce traffic committee will make an extensive survey of Victoria's downtown parking problem.

"Such a survey is vital to our interests," Chamber president Pat Dunn said. "Our business economy is threatened by the fact that customers cannot park close enough to our places of business."

Mr. Dunn said the city offered full co-operation in the survey at a meeting at city hall this week, which was attended by members of the chamber's traffic committee, the city manager, engineer and traffic engineer.

"A high degree of liaison was reached at this meeting," Mr. Dunn continued. "The main thing now is that businessmen should co-operate by giving us the fullest information regarding traffic problems."

"Then we can take some positive action."

Japanese Firm To Finance New Pulp Mill

SITKA, Alaska (AP) — A Japanese-backed company today brought this one-time capital of Alaska its biggest news since Russia transferred it to the United States in 1867.

A pulp mill was virtually assured for this historic fishing community as the Alaska Lumber and Pulp Co. received a preliminary award from the U.S. Forest Service for 5,250,000 board feet of timber in the Tongass National Forest.

The Japanese-financed firm posted a $25,000 cheque as it submitted the only bid at an opening at Juneau, the capital. The firm also posted $75,000 as a guarantee of qualification for the final award.

Tadao Sasayama, chairman of the firm's board, headed the company delegation at the bid opening, which drew a capacity crowd to the Juneau city hall chamber.

DEVELOPMENT PLAN

The product of the projected $45,000,000 plant will be shipped to Japan, under the development plan. A 300-ton-a-day capacity is planned.

Sasayama said in an interview: "Establishment of the dissolving pulp plant will mean year-around employment for Alaskans. It will mean Alaska can participate in the markets of the world."

"It also will enable Japan to secure needed raw materials and at the same time will contribute toward strengthening the ties which bind the free world together."

It will be Alaska's second big pulp plant.

Toronto and Montreal Markets Reflect Higher Prices in U.S.

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Business Editor

Stock markets at Toronto and Montreal reacted favorably this week to the higher prices at New York, then turned down when that market weakened.

Copper stocks scored some of the best gains of the week. Indian Lake was the big trader at Toronto, trading its value with a 40-cent jump to 57 cents. Activity was set off by news that the company will drill in the Chibougamau area.

Other advancing Chibougamau issues included Campbell, which climbed $2.37 to $21.75. Merrill Island and New Royan. Temagami was another mining feature as the company reported good ore showings on its northern Ontario property.

Selected western oils showed strength and the group as a whole scored the best advance of the week.

A BIT OF CANADA

During his visit here this week Lord Tweedsmuir told me his mother still owns a small island between Galiano and Salt Spring that was given her by the B.C. government more than 20 years ago when her husband was governor-general of Canada.

The island, no more than three acres in area, is known as Sphinx Island. Several people have offered to buy it from Lady Tweedsmuir.

"Will she sell it?" I asked. "Not on 'your life,'" Lord Tweedsmuir replied, "it's the only bit of Canada we own."

$20,500,000 in U.S. funds and 615,000 shares of capital stock will be made available in Canada—mostly in western Canada—under financing plans of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd.

A registration statement, revealing plans for financing the gas pipeline from the Peace River to the U.S. border, was filed this week with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

Norman R. Whittall, vice-president of Westcoast Transmission, said the offering will be available towards the end of February. It will be made here by Norman R. Whittall Ltd., Wood Gundy & Co. Ltd.

and Nesbitt Thomson & Co. Ltd.

PIG FANTASIA

Bad news for Canada comes from Britain where the government is struggling with its biggest hog surplus in history. Britain's hog population, 1,500,000 in 1947, soared to 6,000,000 in 1954 and cost British taxpayers 60,000,000 pounds sterling in subsidies in 1955.

Commenting on what it calls Britain's "Pig Fantasia," the British weekly The Economist, says the government should "get away from the idea that the purpose of a pig subsidy is to buttress the incomes of the least competent farmers."

"Inflationary storm warnings from Ottawa have heralded the advent of 1956," says the Letter Review of Fort Erie, Ontario. "Unfortunately, there appears to be singular reluctance in official circles to pin-point the inflationary storm centres."

The Letter Review declares the real threat to economic stability lies in "wage inflation."

Saanich Man Sells Book on Northland

By TONY DICKASON

Unhurried, unruffled, he leads what appears to be a next-to-ideal existence.

This is Arthur Robert Willis, a quietly-spoken, man who writes and raises fruit trees.

Something of the quiet insistence of the soil and growing things seems to have wound itself into Mr. Willis' character for despite sale of his book "North of the Yukon," an event which even the most seasoned authors would greet with something more than a palpable, his major interest seemed to be mid-afternoon coffee.

ARTHUR R. WILLIS

He's aged 48, wears an unostentatious moustache, is tending to baldness, and gives the impression of one who would stand up well in a blitz.

He and wife Blanche, a painter—"don't you think this one of Art looks like Adolph Menjou"—live in a square, rented home at 4890 West Saanich Road in the sort of location where the birds sing themselves hoarse the year round.

Looking out the window at a portion of his 10 acres, Mr. Willis, said he wrote for both "amusement and money," indicating a slight preference for the latter.

WRITTEN IN 1940

The story of "North of the Yukon," he said was written in 1940 and sold to the National Home Monthly. Last year he got the idea of peddling it again, and through an agent in the United States, Bourgeois and Curly of New York, picked it up. Ryerson of Canada published it simultaneously in this country under a reciprocal arrangement.

First printing is 3,500 copies. The book will go on sale here next month.

The story is based on the author's own experiences in 1933 when he spent that year prospecting at Squaw Creek, near the Yukon-Fairbanks border, plus stories picked up from soundings and prospectors of the area.

He credits Ralph Crichton, now 77, St. Charles Street in Victoria, for "the spark" to go ahead with the yarn. Calgary-born, Mr. Willis knew Mr. Crichton in the foothills city.

The West Saanich Road author may have by-passed at least $250,000 while in the north. Depression years then, money to exploit the claim was lacking. Not result was that a U.S. concern took over and dredged successfully for placer gold.

Canadian Painter's Work Used to Typify U.S. Art

LONDON (CP)—A "painting" by Canadian-born Roloff Beny is being used in a London exhibition as an example of modern United States art, but he doesn't mind.

"I'm not regional or national in my work," the 32-year-old artist says. "The main thing is that it should be good."

His "a time of war and a time of peace"—a creative combination of engraving, etching and printing—is on display in the Tate Gallery in a wide-ranging "survey" of modern American art.

Beny's work, printed in 1947 in a limited edition of 12 copies, is part of the permanent collection of the Museum of Modern Art in New York. Other copies are in gallery collections in Ottawa, Toronto, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Venice.

Beny soon will leave London for Egypt and the interior of Africa. He plans to take photographs, paint and collect ideas for magazine articles and possibly for a book.

"I'm a bit superstitious about it," he says. "I don't like to say too much until I've accomplished it."

His paintings have been seen in Victoria at the Art Gallery.

Philatelic Show Deadline Extended

The deadline for the receipt of entries for exhibits at the Fifth International Philatelic Exhibition (FIPEX) has been extended one month to February 15, 1956. This will provide additional time for those collectors who desire to exhibit at this great show that will be held in the New York Coliseum from April 28 to May 6, 1956.

As of January 6, 1956, applications for more than 1,200 frames had been received by the direct entry committee, and each mail is bringing additional entries. Collectors intending to exhibit at FIPEX are urged to send their applications as soon as possible, as this is the only extension that will be granted.

ANOTHER BOOK

Characterization is not too important to the adventure-type story, he said.

He is currently working on another book, also of the northland, "which will be longer than the one out now—maybe 60,000 words."

The author has sold fiction stories to several Canadian publications, and is a frustrated playwright.

He has won a University of Alberta prize for a play, and a couple of plays have been produced by little theatre groups. At present the CBC has two in tow.

He can click off via typewriter as many as 4,500 words daily, and as little as none at all.

"You have to wait for the breakthrough," Mr. Willis explained.

Writing for a living in Canada "is still not rosy," but wedded to his acres, where little happens during winter months, it's an ideal avocation for the farmer-writer.

Interesting in Atmosphere Book Has Limited Viewpoint

AIRMAN AT YALTA by General Laurence E. Kuter, Little, Brown & Co. Toronto, 180 pages, $3.50.

By TOM MERRIMAN

Do not expect to discover any hitherto top secret high policy decisions revealed in "Airmen at Yalta" by General Laurence S. Kuter of the U.S. Air Force.

The author was representing the U.S. Army Air Force due to the sickness of General Kuter, who was in command of the first tripartite conference in February, 1945, which was introductory and explanatory only and that, so far as the book discloses, was his sole attendance at conferences among the top echelon.

Necessarily, General Kuter's reminiscences cover everything from the viewpoint of the U.S. Army Air Force. The greater part of the book is taken up with preliminaries to Yalta, at the Chateau Valmonte, near Marseilles, where the U.S. chiefs of staff met to fix their policy, and at Malta, where they conferred with their British "opposite numbers" to decide upon their joint objectives.

General Kuter's impressions of personalities and places are the most interesting features of the book. He confirms Eisenhower's insistence upon equality among the allies and his repudiation of all nationalistic bickering.

Stalin's diminutive stature amazed him.

Alger Hiss is only mentioned twice, each time quite obviously dragged into the narrative to satisfy public curiosity. He seems to have been a complete nonentity, and one wonders what all the fuss was about when it was revealed that he was at Yalta.

The typical native attitude of the French people is apparent in the quote from the Marseillais: "We are very glad that the Germans were driven out. We are pleased that it was the Americans who came, but why did you bomb us?"

The author expresses his admiration for British administrative capability at some length and, on two or three occasions in particular regarding accommodations at Malta.

Suffering from a housing shortage even before the war, the island had stood up under continuous heavy bombing, there being an estimated 1,500,000 tons of debris in Yalta alone.

The descent upon the city of 100 VIP's and their staff posed a problem. On arrival each visitor received an elaborately printed brochure listing the name and rank of the visitor, his room assignment, telephone number and even the name of his batman.

The brochure informed the recipient that the batman would each morning deliver a copy of the Times of Malta with early morning refreshment, which turned out to be tea, and that hot water would be made available day and night in each room.

Laundry arrangements, valet service, hours of meals and transportation arrangements were also listed. By mooring ships in the Grand Harbor all visitors were successfully housed.

The general toured the council chambers of the ancient knights of Malta in company with Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, RAF, under the guidance of Chevalier Hannibal Scicluna, librarian of Malta, and recalls a sample of Sir Charles' wit.

Scicluna had recounted how in 1880 the Treaty of Ghent had ruled that sovereignty of Malta would remain with the British and stated that this was in recognition of the great desire of the overwhelming majority of the Maltese.

Intriguing Situations In Tale of Indo-China

THE QUIET AMERICAN by Graham Greene, British Book Service of Canada, Toronto, 247 pages, $3.

By H. WYNDHAM THOMAS

Mr. Graham Greene's latest novel, "The Quiet American," was chosen by the Daily Mail book of the month, and the selection is well merited.

The locale of the book is Indo-China during trouble between the Vietnamese and the French. The fighting in Indo-China, with the possible exception of the siege at Dienbienphu, was so overshadowed by events in Korea that its seriousness tended to be ignored.

Although this is by no means a war book it is informative in that it brings home the same old story of Communist infiltration and terrorism.

The hero, Alden Pyle, who is the "quiet American," first appears in the novel as a corpse and the events leading up to his condition are narrated by Thomas Fowler, who is representing a British news agency in Indo-China. The heroine, or rather the leading female character is Phuong, a Vietnamese beauty of 18 who starts out as Fowler's mistress, switches to Pyle when he offers her security by marriage, and nonchalantly returns to Fowler after Pyle's assassination.

Pyle is a naive young innocent with stars in his eyes attached to one of those U.S. missions which are full of the best of intentions but too often seem to miss the boat through ignorance of native customs and ways of thinking.

It is this that leads to his assassination. Fowler had more than a suspicion of what was going to happen, but, after all, Pyle had stolen his mistress, so he let events take their course.

The author's description of the night when Fowler and Pyle are caught in open country after nightfall, and take refuge in one of the watchtowers with two unresponsive Vietnam soldiers is a revealing picture.

The French are unwilling to admit publicly that the Vietnamese controlled the greater part of Indo-China, but this book makes it obvious that long before the end of the fighting the Communists were masters of the whole country from sunset to sunrise. Even in Saigon in broad daylight grenades were tossed into open-faced restaurants so that those frequented by Europeans had to be screened by wire mesh.

Mr. Greene's dialogue is delightful. It flows naturally, frequently with delicious humor, and yet occasionally there is an undercurrent of profound philosophy that injects a solemn note.

There are sufficient intriguing situations in the story to provide material for two or three similar novels.

A sizeable portion of the English-reading world was gripped when Dorothy L. Sayers announced some time ago that her private detective, Lord Peter Wimsey, now a happy husband and father—had hung up his magnifying glass for the last time.

Miss Sayers' publishers, Harper & Brothers, presumably having satisfied themselves that she is unspeakably determined to write no more about Lord Peter, is offering the reader the next best thing—a reissue of all the existing books of Wimsey, starting with "Who's Body?" which opened the series 32 (1/2) years ago.

For those who came in late, "Whose Body?" is a double mystery, involving the disappearance of a prominent financier from his fashionable London home and the simultaneous appearance of an unidentified body definitely not the missing man, in a Battersea bathtub.

In 1923, both author and character—like the rest of the world, for that matter—still had a lot to learn. The early Lord Peter was a bearably amateurish; he carried a swordstick, graduated in inches down one side, with a compass hidden in its head and wore a magnifying glass as a monocle.

Miss Sayers telegraphed her solution to the seasoned mystery fan before the story was 60 pages old.

Nevertheless, there were signs of the charm what was to delight readers of the later books. Old and new friends of Lord Peter definitely have something to look forward to.

BOOK TALK

Writer's Enthusiasm Enlivens Trite Plot

Danish Book, 'Red Umbrellas', Shares Zesty Quality With Roberts' Latest

By JAMES SCOTT

Coming, as it does, in the off-season for publishing, Kenneth Roberts' latest historical novel is perhaps something more of an event than it would be in busier times. Just the same, Boon Island is the kind of book which ought not to be passed over too lightly in any season. This is not a great book. It will not excite very many readers so much that new ideas and thoughts and emotions are provoked to the point where the reading becomes an almost unbearable delight. Oh no, Boon Island is not that kind of reading at all.

But then, when you look at the overall average, just what kind of reading do we usually get? Let's be honest about the answer. We get flat plots, easily recognized characters, and stereotyped settings. We get mediocre writing for mediocre readers.

Now it is my contention that a good competent craftsman can meet all the requirements for success with this mass, mediocre reading public, without himself becoming hopelessly dull. There is one ingredient which a good writer can inject into his story now dull the plot, mundane the people or routine the setting and that quality is zest or enthusiasm.

Each person at the dinner tells a story. At first, these stories seem to be just good anecdotes and the reader wonders if this book is going to be nothing more than a compendium of amazing yarns.

But gradually, he comes to realize that each of the stories reveals more and more about the people who are telling and listening to them. Slowly a most intriguing set of personal inter-relationships emerges among those at the party but the riddle is not solved until the last after-dinner story has been told.

This is one of the trickiest pieces of plotting I have encountered for a long time and obviously its inventor, Kelvin Lindemann, had a lot of fun working it out. The result is that The Red Umbrellas is good reading, fun, too.

As an introduction to current Danish writing, there could not have been a happier harbinger than this book.

Of course, Mr. Roberts handles a plot with considerable dexterity, but it takes more than a plot to give a book life. That comes from the author's own enthusiasm.

So Boon Island is a good tale about a couple of early eighteenth-century Oxford undergraduates who make a mid-winter voyage to America and get shipwrecked off the New England coast. Caught with a mutinous crew, facing a struggle for survival, they encounter a series of fine adventures which will satisfy all Roberts' fans.

You see, there's nothing new in the plot. But Mr. Roberts has never written a crisper tale. Clearly he enjoyed it and anybody who likes this kind of writing will savor it, too.

TRICKY PLOT

Another writer I have just discovered who also enjoys what he writes is the Danish Kelvin Lindemann.

His The Red Umbrellas is set back a century in elegant Copenhagen. The chief character is Marchioness Hermoine Schnell and, as has been her custom, she has a little dinner on her godson's birthday.

Harvard Man Adds to List On Johnson

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF SAMUEL JOHNSON, by Walter Jackson Bates; Oxford University Press, Toronto.

Samuel Johnson, the greatest literary figure of his time, was long overshadowed by the biography which James Boswell wrote about him.

But though he died in 1794, his name still lives and in recent years there have been many new books about him and his works. It is reported that a complete edition of his works is to be published.

The latest work about the man who, struggling against poverty most of his life and illness all of it, won fame as a poet, essayist, lexicographer, novelist, playwright and conversationalist is by Walter Jackson Bates associate professor of English at Harvard.

"The Achievement of Samuel Johnson" is a scholarly analysis of Johnson's work and his personality, his humanity, his deep religious devotion, his obsessive dread of insanity and of death. It is a valuable addition to the still growing list of books about a great and good man.

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Sibelius' Great Symphony in D Terminates Heroic Tradition

By HANS GRUBER

The sixth pair of subscription concerts one week from tomorrow afternoon and Monday night, Feb. 5 and 6, will consist of the long-announced Sibelius-Mozart program, though with some changes. Instead of Sibelius' Violin concerto, it will be this composer's Second symphony. Instead of Mozart's 41st Symphony, the A-major Violin concerto, Finlandia remains.

It has been our custom in the past to play an evening's "major" work after the intermission and close the concert with it. For this next pair of concerts, we'll try it the other way around.

The concert will open with Sibelius' Second Symphony in D and will take up all the pre-intermission time, and afterwards there will be the Mozart 5th Violin concerto, and, to finish the programme, Finlandia.

The second symphony by Sibelius is his best-known, and perhaps his most accessible one. He is not the only living writer of symphonies; Vaughan Williams is still active in England, as is Edmund Rubbra, the latter considered by many to be of far greater importance than his relative obscurity outside of England would indicate.

Then there are quite a few contemporary American symphonists — Roy Harris, Paul Creston, William Schuman, Peter Mennin, Howard Hanson, and others—but, I think, Aaron Copland is the best and most important among these.

And yet, Jean Sibelius stands quite alone for, unlike the others mentioned above, he alone remains the last and truest link with the hallowed traditions of the two nineteenth-century symphonic giants, Beethoven and Brahms.

His musical language is closer to them than to the "moderns." And so is the vastness of his architectural design. If Beethoven's E-flat symphony is the classical "Eroica," then this D-major symphony of Sibelius is the romantic "Eroica."

It is the last time he even adhered to the classical layout of a symphony—namely, four movements, the second movement being the slow movement, with the third movement close in feeling to Beethoven's scherzo, and leading directly into the finale, an arresting device first used by Beethoven in his 5th Symphony.

It is heroic music from first to last. It is music by a physical and mental giant, one uncommunicative with words, for no words, only music, can declare such prophetic profundities, and because only through music can they be made intelligible.

This symphony, having long since stood on its own gigantic merits in orchestras and audiences, has been chosen this time with the added, but wholly incidental, thought of honoring the greatest living composer on his 90th birthday.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss)
BB (Worthwhile) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put in time)

(OSCAR CLASS) "THE AFRICAN LION" (Capitol): Once again Walt Disney, the 20th Century's greatest fairy story-teller and chronicler of nature, produces a true life animal classic. This one is called "The African Lion" and is fit to take its place alongside the rest of Disney's fabulous nature film studies such as "Beverly Hills," "Nature's Half Acre," "The Living Desert," "Water Birds" and "The Vanishing Prairie."

As, it is in all Disney's nature films, unseen man is merely the commentator. The actors are the animals and the stage is God's great outdoors. In the "African Lion," the principal characters are the lion, the cheetah, the elephant, the baboon, the giraffe, the ostrich, the hippopotamus and the crocodile.

There is a LONELINESS about the way Disney's cameramen pick up nature in the raw, as though one were given the power to look across continents and oceans to see the animals, fish and birds as they actually live. For the cameras of Disney never intrude. Everywhere is grace and, in most instances, a picture of unparalleled beauty, as well as humor and pathos. But the undercurrent is also there, swift, strong, steady, an almost frightening feeling savagery about to break loose.

One feels this as the cheetah gather momentum to race at 80 mph to catch up and kill the fleet antelope for dinner. One sees the elephants march towards their watering places as even the proud lions make way. One of the most amazing sights is to watch the hippopotamus gambol in the murky river and perceive its ungainly grace as it swims with the fish and crocodiles under water.

THANKS TO DISNEY AND his intrepid cameramen things of the jungle, of the forests, of the air, of the sea, of the rivers and the desert are now only as far away from the home-farth-est as the local theatre. These are the pictures that all school children should be taken to either by their parents or under the auspices of their schools. More can be learned about nature in an afternoon of watching a Disney nature film than any number of books on the subject could ever hope to impart.

It is good to note that "The African Lion" is being held over through Tuesday.

Examination Candidates Perform at Varied Concert

Students who are preparing for Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto mid-winter examinations to be held in early February, were presented in recital recently at Newstead Hall.

The concert was arranged by teachers who are members of the Victoria Chapter of the Alumni Association, conveners being Mrs. H. Laszlo and Mrs. M. Chandler. The president, Mrs. T. H. Johns, spoke briefly, thanking the artists.

Taking part were, Marilyn Stansby, Genevieve Swatsky, Cheryl Boris, Judy Humber, Ross Rocket, Linda Johns, Lynn Stevenson, Margaret Newman, Robert Parker and Margaret Richmond, piano solos.

Vicky Vigor and Brenda McCann played a piano duet and Lila Israel, Joan Saxon and Sheila McCann, a piano trio.

Vocal solos were given by Barbara Oldhall, Billie Ritchie and Mrs. Renee Deeks, accompanied by Mrs. Alma Wittick.

Lois Lawrence, saxophonist, and Bob Macdonald, clarinetist, played solos. Their accompanist was Mrs. Howard Denker.

Mary Goward accompanied by Florence Goward and Wendy Gerry accompanied by Miss Noel Smith, played violin solos.

The program was brought to a close with a group of choral numbers sung by St. Andrew's Cathedral Choir under direction of Mrs. O. D. Young.

Students to Benefit From Artist's Visit

Sigurd Rascher, a man who can get four octaves out of his saxophone with incredible ease, has appeared with many of North America's leading bands and orchestras as guest artist and is even more well-known by reason of a number of fine recordings.

When he comes to Victoria February 7 for a three-day visit he will spend three one-and-a-half hour sessions imparting some of the secrets of his skill to band students of Victoria schools.

These clinics will be held at S. J. Willis, Central and Oak Bay Junior High Schools on successive afternoons. Each session will be different and will cover different parts of saxophone training.

Tickets which students may purchase from school band directors also admit the holder to the recital to be given the evening of Feb. 8 at Oak Bay Junior High.

For members of the public wishing to hear a saxophone recital which includes arrangements of classics as well as works written especially for the instrument, tickets are available at Eaton's box office.

AT THE WHEEL

Hans Gruber

No manufactured produce of any kind comes readily to mind which has enjoyed the phenomenal success of the Cadillac car. The very name has become a universal symbol of excellence and desirability; in some parts of the world, prestige bestowed by ownership of a Cadillac car even challenges that implicit in the ownership of the Rolls-Royce, despite the fact that the latter still costs several times as much to buy.

Yet I do not think that this "Cadillac phenomenon" defies explanation, at least in part. It is an excellent car, to be sure; but so are other makes in the same price-range; some of them undoubtedly surpassing the Cadillac in one way or another.

It is my view that Cadillac has risen to its present all but unassailable position because of the general fact that it has never lent its name to a lesser car. There was a time, not so very long ago, when Packard was the "American Rolls-Royce"; when the LeBaron-bodied Chrysler Imperial was second to none in the classic era of the early thirties; when a V-12 Lincoln limousine with body by Brunton stood on equal terms with anything else of its kind. Cadillac was always up there with them, but never clearly above them. And then came the depression. Those who would not compromise are no longer in business. Marmon, Duesenberg, Pierce-Arrow, Peerless. However, Packard, in order to survive, began building cars "to a price. There emerged the six-cylinder Packard 110 and the small eight 120. Lincoln brought out the Zephyr (incidentally, the first American unit-construction car). Chrysler came up with the "Royal," a car all but indistinguishable from the Plymouth.

While all of them continued to build, in small quantities, their quality prestige models, the names have lost their exclusiveness, and for this they continue to pay bitterly today.

TRUE TO TRADITION

Cadillac alone continued to be true to its tradition—one may say it was easy enough for them, having been maintained by General Motors—nevertheless, so it was. Even at the time when Cadillac division of General Motors did build a companion car, slightly smaller, but of absolutely equal quality, it had its own name of La Salle. The name Cadillac was reserved for the Cadillac only. Proof of my contention may today be found therein that Packard was desperate to stop people calling the Clipper the Packard-Clipper, just as Chrysler insists it is the Imperial, and NOT the Chrysler Imperial. They want to re-establish the exclusiveness of a name, long after their cars have again become high quality products.

EVOLUTION

Cadillac, also, have had a gradual but characteristic evolution in styling, so that a Cadillac 10 or more years old bears recognizable resemblance to the current model. The others have changed completely, from time to time, in an effort to come upon a winning formula; their looks bear no likeness whatever to previous models, and thus they lack certain imperishable "tradition" so successfully maintained by Cadillac.

During the Second World War, when new cars were unobtainable for some years, those who owned pre-war Cadillacs became the car's most priceless press agents, for it was found that Cadillacs all but defied the aging process after inordinately high mileage. A Cadillac became suddenly more than a car; it became an investment. Because of its reputation of endless wear, it commanded premium prices as a used car, and continues to this day to how an unnaturally low rate of depreciation.

Cadillac's competitors are in the unhappy position of realizing that they cannot "catch Cadillac" purely on merit. This they have done long ago. They have to live down the past, which seems to be far more difficult than building a good car.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q: How can I remove paint spots from floor tile without damaging the tiles?—Mrs. R.E. A: Remove excess paint with a putty knife or razor blade, then rub the spots with steel wool dipped in a liquid cleaner formulated especially for the care and cleaning of resilient flooring materials. ### BEASTALL ADVISES

Knowledge of Seed Longevity Improves Gardener's Success

A list, useful to the home gardener, is often found in gardening books and seed catalogs under the heading "Average longevity of seeds."

While the title may sound technical it simply means the length of time seeds may be kept before they lose their ability to germinate.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

If weather remains mild, continue digging of vacant ground; cultivation between plants on light soils; and planting of tree and shrub material as available from the nurseries.

Indoors, sow seed of hardy annuals (snaps, larkspur, pentstemon and pansy) and slow-growing annuals (verbena, lobelia, petunia and salvia.)

Shift rooted cuttings into size larger pots as required.

Bring into warmth remainder of daffodils and tulips in pots for indoor bloom.

Sow green peas in plant bands for planting out later.

The few early potatoes sprouted in window may now be planted in cold frame, an unheated greenhouse or a five-inch deep box in a shed or porch.

NEW FABRICS REFLECT OLD CULTURES

It's no surprise that upholstery fabrics are becoming more ornamental this year—for in almost every branch of home furnishings the severity of architectural modern is giving way to a warm and highly decorative elegance.

Fabric designers have drawn heavily upon rich cultures of the past, such as Oriental, Arabic, Persian and Turkish, for ornamental motifs, colors and weaves that are synonymous with elegance, yet can be applied to both contemporary and traditional furniture.

In many of the new designs, although the pattern itself may be quite simple, such as an over-all checkerboard or stripe, the decorative detailing—multicolored metallic threads, secondary motifs, multi-weave and color combinations—makes the difference.

based on a definite percentage of germination, but as possible to get some germination after a longer period of storage.

When seeds which are older than shown in the list are to be used it is best to sow them in a seed box indoors or a seed bed outdoors, thus using the minimum of space to germinate those which are still viable.

The seeds of some plants are not worth keeping from one year to the next. Their average longevity is listed as one year and this is reckoned from the time of harvesting, not from the date the packet was purchased.

In this group we find onions, parsnips, parsley, aster (callitropis), delphinium, gerbera, larkspur, pansy, annual phlox, verbena, annual salvia, and viola. For good results it pays to buy these seeds fresh every year.

Aquilegia (columbine) and centaurea are best used the first year but will give reasonable germination up to two years. Globe artichoke, leek, pepper, watermelon, dahlia, lilies, lupin, forget-me-not and annual scabiosa are listed at two years, and the home gardener can count on satisfactory results when these are sown the second season after harvesting.

Seeds which are good after three years of storage include asparagus, beans, broccoli, carrots, celery, kohlrabi, peas, spinach, sweet corn, alyssum, cosmos, lobelia, nigella, petunia, sweet pea and wallflower. The four-year group contains beet, sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, Swiss chard, egg plant, kale, pumpkin, radish, squash, tomato, turnip, dianthus (pinks), poppy, schizanthus (butterfly flower), snapdragon and stock.

Cyclamen seed will vary from three to five years. Cucumber, endive, gilia, nasturtium, salpiglossis and zinnia are the favorites in the five-year group, while lettuce tops the list with a viable period of six years.

The easiest way of determining which packets to keep and which should be discarded is to mark each packet when purchased with the crop year and the number of years to be kept. On lettuce, for instance, purchased this spring we would write 1955 (the year of harvesting) and then the figure six or 1961.

While these longevity tables are useful the viability of any seed depends on its quality when harvested, the after-ripening if such is needed, and the conditions under which it is stored.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Surviving Strawberries Warrant Careful Nurture

By JACK BEASTALL

Q—I understood that all strawberry plants were killed in this area by the November frost, but mine seem to have life in them and there are runners between the plants. Shall I keep the old plants and the runners?

A—Strawberry plants which had a few inches of snow on them before the hard frost seem to be little damaged. Since there could be a scarcity of replacement plants, it might be wise to retain a percentage of runners and the best of the old plants. Make up a new bed for these after fruiting.

Q—Is it too early to take cuttings of Korean chrysanthemums from the outdoor plants?

A—No. If cuttings are an inch or two high at the base of some protected plants in your border, use them as cuttings now. After rooting, the banded or potted plants may be kept in a light cold frame or cool porch until spring.

If the children have played havoc with the panels of their bedroom door, cover the matted surfaces with the wallpaper used to decorate the room, being sure the pattern lines up with that on the walls.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

I like a great many things about newspapers, but the thing I like best of all is, you can read the headlines, and you don't have to read the stories under the headlines. Once you read a headline, you can make up your own story to go with it.

I'll bet you did exactly that when you encountered this example on page 15 of yesterday's Times:

CCF MEMBER PLEADS FOR SMALL LOGGERS

When you encountered the above-noted headline, you leaned back in your chair, and supplied the following:

A strong, well documented plea for small loggers was put forth in the Legislative assembly yesterday by the member from Lilliput.

The member from Lilliput said there are too many big loggers around and about, and what this country needs is more small loggers.

Loggers, said the member from Lilliput, tend to stand six feet seven in their stocking feet, if they wear stockings. This is a bad thing, said the member from Lilliput. Loggers who stand six feet seven in their stocking feet are a definite deterrent to small loggers, he went on.

In fact, he said, tall loggers should be banned, because how can small loggers operate with so many tall loggers around?

The member from Lilliput went on to say what this country needs is a good five-foot logger.

"We need small loggers," he said. "The smaller the better. After all, there are a great many small trees in B.C., and to log the small trees, we need small loggers."

Of course, the member from Lilliput admitted, we will have to start this movement toward smaller loggers in a small way.

But eventually it could become a big thing for B.C., he concluded.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce today supported ex-almirante Brent Murdoch in his stand against renting the Britannia Branch Legion auditorium to the National Federation of Labor Youth, charging that group is Communist-sponsored.

The NFLY plans a concert there the evening of February 4, which will consist of 32 performers, including several national song and dance groups.

The Dickens Fellowship, Victoria branch, will hold its annual dinner next Saturday at 6.30 p.m. in the YWCA. E. F. Wetherston, president, will be in the chair.

Pay parade for members of 40 Technical Squadron RCNEM (M) will be held Tuesday night at Bay Street Armory.

Roger Peachey, civic defence director for Greater Victoria, will address the annual meeting of Victoria Automobile Club in the Duke of Kent room at the Empress Hotel Monday at 4 p.m.

The annual reports will be presented by George I. Warren, secretary-treasurer, followed by the election of officers.

W. T. Straith, QC, will preside.

Local artist Mrs. Lillian Sweeney, member Victoria Sketch Club, has been advised her oil painting of Long Beach on Vancouver Island's West Coast was judged best oil in a recent exhibition at Victoria Art Gallery. Eleven B.C. clubs were involved in the showing of the Sketch Club of B.C.

Heavy fines were imposed on two naval ratings when they appeared in Colwood RCMP court Friday on driving charges.

Patterson G. Ray was fined a total of $60 and $12 costs on charges of speeding, driving without a licence and using another person's licence.

His companion, Joseph E. C. Woods, paid a total fine of $40 and $8 costs for allowing an unlicensed minor to drive, and permitting another person to use his licence.

Charge of failing to file an income tax return brought a fine of $25 and $2.50 costs or seven days in jail for John Blair, 1052 Newport, in Oak Bay police court Friday.

Leslie Harold Cox, Sidney, was fined $10 and $5 costs in Sidney RCMP court today on a charge of allowing a dog to roam without a leash in Sidney.

Fine of $250 or 20 days in jail was imposed in Oak Bay police court Friday on William Henry Daldie, 804 Foul Bay road, when he pleaded guilty to an impaired driving charge.

Course was told the accused was driving south on Beach Drive at about 12.55 a.m. Jan. 22 when he drove off the road and crashed into a lamp standard. Impact snapped the standard.

City Hot Rod Enthusiasts To Form Own Association
A group of local "hot rod" enthusiasts have scheduled an organizational meeting for Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Williams Building Hall, 749 Broughton.

Spokesman Daryl Foster, a local mechanic, said a club will be formed and a name decided at the meeting. He expects at least 40 enthusiasts will attend the meeting. Mr. Foster also said a discussion

Former president of the Victoria Retired Civil Servants' Association, W. L. Llewellyn, Friday was elected president of the Oak Bay Social Credit Association, McNeill group.

Named vice-president was H. Miller and secretary E. G. Emery.

Charge of allowing an unlicensed person to drive an auto resulted in a fine of $35 and $5 costs in Sidney RCMP court today for Curtis William Drover, 1170 Lockley.

Fines totaling $60 and $10 costs were imposed in Sidney RCMP court today on Jean McLaughlin, Victoria, on two traffic charges.

She was charged with careless driving and driving without a licence following an accident on Patricia Bay Highway last Sunday.

Saanich Council Monday will vote on an application of McCol-Frontenac Oil Co. for permission to erect a service station at the corner of Richmond Road and Newton Avenue. The project is opposed by some 20 residents in the district.

David Fernie, 1177 Esquimalt road, and Cyril Young, 240 Burnside East, each were fined $35 or five days in jail when they appeared in Oak Bay police court Friday on careless driving charges.

Both were involved in a recent accident at Dalhousie and Musgrave.

Short courses in labor unionism will be held in three northern B.C. centres in March, sponsored jointly by Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and local labor councils.

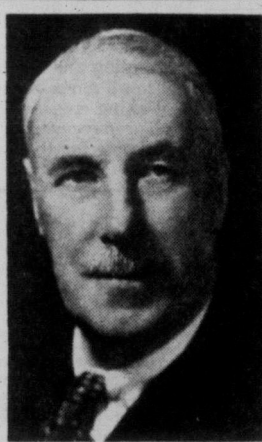

Arranged through assistance of T. G. Gooderham, TLC organizer, a course will be held in Prince Rupert, March 10 and 11; in Kitimat, 13-15, and in Prince George, 17 and 18.

Two Receive Head Injuries In City Crash
Two persons were treated at hospital for minor injuries received in a two-car accident at Blanshard and Burdett at about 12.55 a.m. today.

Ann Drew, 22, 1520 Gladstone, suffered a forehead cut and Robert J. Little, 2705 Heron, received head cuts. Both went to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Police said Mr. Little was driving east on Burdett when in collision with a car driven south on Blanshard by George Johnson, 568 Paradise.

CENTURY OF COURAGE

Three Islanders In Heroic Few

By TONY DICKASON

Valorous warriors! These are the three Victoria Cross holders on Vancouver Island, neighbors in the noblest tradition, to all.

They talk little, personified so items such as this must talk for them.

Major-General George Randolph Pearkes, 68, is tall, looks like a diplomat, enjoys coffee with any office assistant, is a charmer; works hard for war veterans; is a notably handsome man.

Lieut. Cmdr. Rowland Bourke, 70, "Rolly" to his friends, has worn thick glasses all his life, has a keen and analytical mind, avoids publicity like the plague, tends to call acquaintances "old thing."

Col. Cyrus "Cy" Wesley Peck, 84, has "the heart of a lion" despite his advanced years, a close friend said today.

day, has just recovered from a severe bout of pneumonia; has spent years working for veterans.

Sunday marks the 100th anniversary of the establishment in 1856 by Queen Victoria of the award for heroism. The VC has been won by a mere 96 Canadians, 35 of whom are alive today. At least some of these will attend the centennial celebration in London this summer. Maj. Gen. Pearkes likely will go; Col. Peck may, depending on the state of his health, while Cmdr. Bourke considers a trip to London unlikely, at the least, at this stage.

In Canada, he farmed for three years, then joined the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. He spent three years with the Mounties before leaving the Yukon in 1915 to enlist in the 2nd Regiment of the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Promotions and decorations came quickly. In 1916 he was commissioned in the field and in 1918 was promoted to lieutenant colonel, officer commanding the 116th Battalion.

He was awarded the Military Cross, the Distinguished Service Order, and for "conspicuous bravery and the skillful handling of the troops under his command" in the attack on Passchendaele on October 30 and 31, 1917, he won the Victoria Cross. He also received the French Croix de Guerre. He was wounded in action five times.

THIS IS THE VICTORIA CROSS, the Commonwealth's top award "For Valour." It has been won by 96 Canadians. It is small, made of bronze. Record price of $480 was paid for VC at recent London auction, bought by regiment of Ensign J. Craig who won award in Crimean War.

Single or Married Unskilled Workers Needed at Kitimat
Demand for unskilled workers for the Aluminum Co. at Kitimat is strong and both single and married men are now acceptable. C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Office here, said today.

Jobs must be obtained through local NES offices, he said. Hiring is not done at Kitimat itself.

Because of accommodation shortage there, it is necessary all married men leave families behind until accommodation becomes available.

Number of men seeking work here this week dropped 37 below the week previous, but the number of women wanting employment climbed 53 higher than the previous corresponding period.

Demand for bookkeepers and experienced office workers increased and there was a steady demand for skilled manual occupations, such as in lumbering.

Victoria Airman Appointed To New Post
New director of air plans and programs for the RCAF at Ottawa headquarters is G.C. Reginald J. Lane, 36, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lane, live at 1468 Begbie, here.

Winner of the Distinguished Service Order and Distinguished Flying Cross in the Second World War, G.C. Lane succeeds G.C. John K. F. MacDonald, 36, Antigonish, N.S., who is appointed commander of No. 3 Fighter Wing at Zweibrücken, Germany.

Present commanding officer of the wing is G.C. A. C. Hull, 36, Vancouver who has been appointed a senior air staff officer with air defence command at St. Hubert, Que.

The plan for improving port facilities here was approved in principle by the federal government almost as soon as the new post office building was occupied, but the go-ahead signal had to await formal approval of the estimates in the budget.

The former quarantine station area, and possibly some of the buildings, will be taken over by the RCN as part of the huge Rocky Point arsenal.

The arsenal, which provides storage space and laboratory facilities for army and air force as well as navy, is located inland from the present Quarantine Station.

Port Facility Streamlining Set for City

Federal Action Clears Way

Approval in the federal estimates of more than $800,000 for renovation of the old post office building has cleared the way for a long-projected improvement in Victoria's port facilities for deep-sea ships.

Reconstruction of the former post office will provide downtown space for the immigration staff, which is now housed in the Immigration Building on Ontario street, in the James Bay area.

Customs and excise department will also be in the renovated building, so shipmasters and shipping agents can make a "one stop" clearance of incoming vessels.

As a corollary to the downtown move of immigration, the James Bay building will be taken over by the federal health and welfare department, for the use of the Quarantine Station staff under Dr. Bertram Jenkins.

The Quarantine Station is now at William Head, and incoming ships must anchor there for examination before proceeding to Victoria or through to Vancouver.

Medical approval is required for passengers and crews of all ships reaching Canadian waters from Oriental or tropical ports. At present medical examiners board the ships from the William Head station.

Under the new plan, doctors will board the ships inbound between Race Rocks and Brothie Ledge, thus expediting medical clearance. Quarantine station launches will be berthed at Ogden Point, inside the breakwater, near the B.C. Pilotage Authority floats.

In conjunction with medical examination duties, the 14-man Quarantine Station staff will take on the responsibility of caring for sick mariners. Nearly every deep-sea ship which berths here has one or more crew members in need of medical or dental care, which is provided under the Sick Mariners' Act.

At present a private physician acts as "port doctor" on a contract basis with the federal government. Under the new plan, Dr. Jenkins' medical staff will take care of this work.

IDEAL SITE
Location of the immigration building, close to the Ogden Point docks, is ideal for this purpose.

Local Improvement Plan To Be 'Sold' by Clubmen

A city-wide do-it-yourself campaign for beautification of residential streets is to be promoted soon by the city public works department and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The clubmen have volunteered to act as door-to-door "salesmen" for the city's local improvement plan by which residents co-operate to provide sidewalks, grassy boulevards, curbs, gutters and new street surfaces.

In 1954 35 areas of the city employed local improvement plans for neighborhood improvement. The figure is expected to be twice as great in 1955 when final figures are tabulated.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said with the Jaycees' help in publicizing the plan, "There is nothing to stop us from leading all other Canadian municipalities in this field."

"I am very happy to accept the Junior Chamber of Commerce offer and compliment the group on its interest in civic betterment," he added.

He said if the resultant public interest is great enough, "we will hire more crews for the work."

The local improvement development plan has been in effect for several years. Authorities believe if it were better understood by the residents, the whole face of residential Victoria could be changed.

Under the plan the city undertakes to do the work and amortize costs, payable with taxes, over a 15-year period. For instance, cost of a 50-foot sidewalk is less than $11 a year to the homeowner.

Real estate authorities have agreed that the expenditure is more than returned to the resident in the increased value of his home.

TWO-THIRDS NEEDED
A two-thirds majority of residents on each block is necessary before the city can be successfully petitioned to do the work. Getting that majority will be the task undertaken by the Jaycees.

The idea is a first for the Victoria Jaycees and has never been duplicated by any other club in the national organization. A further city offer is to provide grass seed wherever boulevards are decided upon by residents. In many cases too, black top soil is provided when available, and there is some hope that in future years trees will be available for the boulevards.

Mayor Percy Scourrah said this morning, "I hope residents will give these young men a kind hearing when they call. They will be doing a worthy public service. It looks like an excellent idea and could be the start of a real upsurge in local beautification."

"What any one neighborhood does will reflect credit to the city generally—which is most desirable."

Details of the drive, which will be headed by club chairman Stickney Harris, are expected to be announced early next week.

Bids will be called next week for an eight-room wing valued at $236,000 for Margaret Jenkins School, which is part of the school board $3,129,000 current building program.

Commonwealth Construction Company was awarded contract this week for the $750,000 Hudson's Bay Company warehouse and service centre at Cloverdale and Oak.

The new Oak Bay apartment, already under construction, is owned by A. K. Smalley. The builders are Howe & Wilson Construction.

The firm will employ 25 men on the job. The three-story apartment house will be located in the 1300 block, Beach Drive, opposite Oak Bay Boathouse. It will contain 15 suites, of two and three-bedroom designs.

The building will have an elevator and will feature seafront balconies. Work is expected to be concluded in June. Architects are Wade, Stockhill and Armour.

Gardiner Funeral Set for Tuesday
Funeral service for former Victoria postmaster George H. Gardiner, who died Thursday at his home, 1273 Hampshire Road, will be held Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. at Oak Bay United Church.

Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park. McCall Bros. are in charge of arrangements.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

SHRINERS INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Theme of Youth Week Is First Things First

YOU SAID TO ME---

A Sunday message of help and comfort for those puzzled, depressed or low in spirit.

You said to me, "A wrong was done to one I loved and to me, and I feel a deep resentment that will not die."

The wrong was very real, and the harm done to you was great, but not so great as the harm you have done to yourself. The only safe place to put the memory of such a wrong is in the hands of God, who alone knows how to deal with it. The teaching of Jesus that we must forgive if we are to be forgiven holds a very deep philosophical truth. As long as we hold resentment, we cannot be forgiven, for we do not wish for forgiveness. We are treasuring a pride that splits at God, and says, "I know well that I am adding to the weight of evil that spoils Thy world; but my pride is dearer to me than the fulfilling of Thy law of love and forgiveness."

Do you want God or resentment in your heart? You cannot have both. Be honest with yourself and with God.

Thrilled Congregation Dedicates Pipe Organ

A congregation which has been thrilled by the innovation of pipe organ music during service for the past two weeks will dedicate the instrument at morning service Sunday.

Victoria West United Church, which made provision for pipe organ installation when the present building was constructed 45 years ago, and will see and hear the realization of a long-standing dream when the Rev. C. G. McKenzie dedicates the organ to the pioneers and war dead of the church.

Mrs. Harry Youson, daughter of a former minister of the church will be the soloist. A. W. Wright is organist.

The church auditorium has been renovated for the dedication service and many distant contributions to the memorial organ fund are expected to be in attendance.

"The instrument is a beautiful one and perfectly suited to the acoustic qualities of the church," Mr. McKenzie said today.

The congregation showed marked progress in its annual meeting held earlier this week. Clerk of session Gordon Mitchell reported membership up and expressed the gratitude of the elders for the work of the many organizations in making improvements to the church plant during 1955.

Treasurer Gordon Weismiller reported the best financial year in his 15 years in the post, and chairman of the board of stewards A. E. Goodwin told the members that his board had set a budget for 1956 which is 25 per cent greater than that of 1955.

All national church allocations were met.

In order to meet a need and answer the questions asked about heaven, Dr. J. B. Rowell, pastor, Central Baptist Church, is taking for his subject on Sunday evening, "Heaven—Seven Wonders of the Celestial Home." His message at the morning service at 11 a.m. will be "Christians Drifting: God's Challenge to Give More Earnest Heed."

The minister, Rev. Douglas B. Carr, will preach at both services in Centennial United Church. His sermon topic of the morning will be "Lifeboat Drill," second in series: "The Ocean of Life." Members of all the groups within the church will be in attendance at the evening service for the installation and rededication of their officers and leaders.

The services at St. Andrews Presbyterian will be conducted by the minister, the Very Rev. J. Lewis W. McLean, M.A., D.D., and will be broadcast over radio station CJVI. The morning sermon subject will be "The Place to Begin," and in the evening Dr. McLean will speak on "Living on Tiptoe."

At Emmanuel Baptist Church the pastor, Rev. James E. Smith, will preach at both services, the morning topics, "Jesus Was a Foreign Missionary," and the subject at the evening service, "Seek Ye First." The young

Oak Bay Congregation Mourns G. H. Gardiner

Congregation of Oak Bay United Church was saddened this week at the loss of G. H. Gardiner.

The church paid tribute to him Monday at their annual meeting.

Mr. Gardiner was with St. Columba Presbyterian for 10 years and remained as treasurer when Methodist and Presbyterian churches joined in 1925.

Judge J. B. Clearhugh presented Mr. Gardiner with a camera, light meter, projector and screen, and spoke of his faithful attendance, efficiency and reliability through the years.

Financial report showed the 574-member church contributed a total $24,433 in 1955, more than 25 per cent of which went to missionary and benevolent work.

Hall debt was reduced to $8,000; $350 was given to Union College (U.C.) fund, and another $900 to the local church extension fund.

Elected to the board of stewards for the next three years were Mrs. F. G. Matkin, A. J. Bowring, C. N. Beattie, J. L. LeHuquet and F. G. Matkin. Property conveyed by J. H. Britten reported a new project for church lighting and decoration.

More than 20 church organizations reported on their activities through the year, including Sunday school superintendent A. R. C. Hebdon. He said enrollment now stands at 486 including 53 teachers. A popular feature is the young people's Bible class under D. K. Branter, with 50 members.

Board of stewards chairman expressed on behalf of the congregation, appreciation and confidence in the minister and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. McPherson.

City Adventists Give $41,957 For Church Work

Donations of Victoria Seventh-Day Adventists towards all phases of their local and world-wide work totalled $41,957 for 1955, revealed R. E. Robinson, church treasurer, at the annual business meeting.

This represented an increase of $20,000 over donations made in 1952.

"Our local membership is 205, so this is a splendid response by the members," said Mr. Robinson.

"Every penny is being put to use immediately. The expansion of our work in Canada and in the world-wide field is using up our funds just as fast as we raise them. Adventists today operate hospitals, schools and gospel work in 183 out of the 205 countries of the world."

Among local SDA projects which benefited from the funds were the IRL Memorial School on Hillside, and the Dorcas Welfare Society. With all disbursements made and obligations met, local funds still had a credit of $2,384.

Members of the Solarium Junior League who have been working for weeks on plans for the dime shower. Include, from the left, Mrs. Flora Frankland, league president; Mrs. Evelyn Forrest, Miss Joyce Brettell, in charge of entertainment, and Mrs. Grey Batley. Little Dolly Lushaw, left, and Wilma Gordon, both three and a half years old, are post acute poliomyelitis cases at the Solarium.

An arthritic hip joint has confined two-year-old Bruce, left, in a hip spica cast, but he is enjoying life at the Solarium, despite these restrictions. A most proper little man, he calls everyone by their correct names and states clearly his requirements. Gleneen, also age two, is being treated for eczema.

Your Donations Help Little Children Fight Their Way Back to Health

The 17th annual "Shower of Dimes," sponsored by the Solarium Junior League, commenced today when league members placed gold and blue umbrellas and small plastic containers throughout the city, in hotels, theatres and stores.

These umbrellas symbolize a two-week, province-wide drive for dimes to assist in work of Queen Alexandra Solarium, where crippled children from all parts of British Columbia . . . regardless of race, color, religion or finances are helped back to health and happiness.

More than 60 per cent of the cost of maintaining this Solarium comes from YOU . . . THE PUBLIC . . . Payments from parents, grants, and the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service make up the remainder.

The shower will continue until Saturday, Feb. 11.

All members of the Shower of Dimes committee have devoted many hours in the past weeks to folding and mailing appeal letters to individual citizens, schools and organizations throughout the province. Plans for the drive commenced in the autumn of 1955 and work will continue unabated until the shower is concluded.

Contributions may be mailed to Box 177, Victoria, B.C. A receipt will be forwarded for income tax purposes.

Two-year-old Ross has been treated at the Solarium for hyperthyroidism. The treatments have been so successful he is due for an early discharge. Many other children like Ross will be helped by donations made during the drive.

Official Opening

On Tuesday evening, in the Crystal Garden, the 1956 Solarium dime shower will get away to an official start at a "Fun-For-All" party. Hon. Wesley Black, Minister of Municipal Affairs, introduced by Mrs. Frankland, president of the Junior League of the Queen Alexandra Solarium, will open the affair.

The P and RT Centre of HMCS Naden, under supervision of Lieut. R. P. Mylrea, will present a water display including trapeze acts and frogmen, in the Crystal Pool. The BPOE clown band will be in attendance.

There will be games of skill with valuable prizes; a "Lady With a Thousand Pockets"; "Clarabell" the Clown will have hundreds of balloons for the children.

Modern dancing is planned in the Flamingo Room with Len Acre's orchestra; square dancing, western swing and old-time dancing in the lower ballroom with the Home Towners.

Door prizes include a fur coat for women and a girl's or boy's bicycle.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Rope Beads Pop Together Without Strings or Clasps

By PENNY SAVER

With spring clothes and accessories appearing everywhere in town, I couldn't miss the new jewelry that has caused so many approving comments in fashion circles. Long ropes of beads are adaptable so that they may be worn as chokers, regular necklaces or as ropes. Even bracelets emerge with a flick of the wrist. How? Well, the beads are not strung together, but each bead pops into a section of the next bead. Made of softer plastic, they're semi-flexible, so that you can separate the ropes to change the lengths. No worries about lost beads; no bother of having necklaces re-string, and no clasp trouble.

An average rope costs $1.50, and there's a whole range of colors to go with any outfit. Choose from ruby, orange, pink, turquoise, white, or navy.

Going out on a big night on the town? A special hankie to tuck into your evening bag must be the frilliest and prettiest you own. Strictly for show are the gorgeous ones I saw in town. Made of embroidered net, with wide edging of lace they're made to match your lovely dancing dress. There's champagne, frosty pink, carmen red, mauve orchid, evening blue, robins egg blue, black, white and soft yellow. Each costs 79 cents. It's one of those frivolous, typically feminine things that a woman loves to own.

Made in England, exclusively for this Victoria shop, are the dainty, little girl sweaters. Pink, with puff sleeves and scattered with confetti dots, these sweaters are a square knit, and are as feminine as can be. The waistline is elasticized, and the collar is a small pointed styling. It also comes in blue or red, and costs $8.95.

Similarly styled is the one with puff sleeves, a plain neckline with knitted fly-away bow, matched with a bow at the elasticized waistline. A tiny pocket adds to the fashion, too. Also in a square knit, it comes in yellow with a white touch or blue with white. This style is $10.95.

The Prince Charles sweaters are catching on in town, too. They're double-breasted, with six shiny gold buttons, V-cut notched collar and long sleeves. The front panels are red or blue flecked, and the sleeves, collar and back are white. This sweater is $9.95. All these styles are hand-made of the softest wool.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to buy the items mentioned in the column.

AS WE LIVE

Friendships Are Often Necessarily One-Sided

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

In a friendship, one cannot expect everything to come out even all the time.

Hurlock

See how he was and to give him his lunch. My husband thinks she is imposing on me and wants me to tell her so. I hate to do this as we are good friends. I can count on her to help me out whenever we have an emergency in our home, and I know she needs the money or she wouldn't be working. What should I do?"—Mrs. L. N.

(A)—Keep on doing things for your friend as you have been doing since she started to work. Don't let your husband influence you against her as he is trying to do. Instead, try to make him realize that in a true friendship, one does not act as he wants you to act.

At the moment, it may seem that your friend is asking you to do more for her than she is doing in return. However, knowing that you can count on her in an emergency and that she will do what she can for you with her limited time should certainly balance the scales.

In a true friendship, one does not expect a friend whose income is limited to give as generous gifts as one who can readily afford to do so. You should feel the same way about time and other things.

Your friend has certainly done her share for you when she was not working. Furthermore, if she were working merely for selfish interests, you would justifiably feel differently than you do now that you know her working is a family necessity. Show your friendship by helping her in any way you can.

This Exercise Will Stir Up Circulation in Your Legs

Q—"I am not overweight and my legs are not large but I would like some leg exercises just to stir up circulation. My feet and legs are always ice cold."

A—"I will give you an exercise which will really stir up the circulation, but I think that before you do any exercises you should see your doctor to find out why you have such cold feet."

The following exercise is good for general circulation and tone in the legs. Stand tall with your hands on your hips. Bend your left knee and reach back with your right leg as far as you can comfortably. Keep your knee as straight as possible. Return to starting position. This time bend your right knee and extend your left leg as far back as comfortable. Continue, alternating right and left.

Q—"Can a woman have superfluous hair removed when she is pregnant?"

A—"So far as I know there could not possibly be any harm."

The Spring Suit Story

From New York, the highlight of the suit story is the emergence of the soft and feminine silhouette for spring. Slowly and steadily for the past few seasons the easy line in pretty and wearable clothes has developed.

At first glance, it might seem that there's nothing new in that the curves of the figure have not been moved, drastically down, up, sideways or backwards. But the change is there nevertheless. It's there in the bloused silhouette, in the gently fitted line, in the bloused jackets, belted jackets and boleros. It's there in the lightest fabrics ever and in a simplicity that's the essence of femininity.

The easy-fitting dressmaker suit, which makes the most of a woman's waistline, is back because women want it. It sports a slim skirt but one that is not rigidly straight and narrow. Instead, there is softness and ease in the use of the panel back and panel pleats.

Many jackets are above the wrist length and very gently fitted at the waist. Dropped shoulder seams are used in suits, as well as coats, to suggest width at the top. Sometimes suits are collarless, sometimes they have low collars or collars cut to stand away from the neck bone. Sleeves are short, usually mid-arm length.

Beige is by far the most important color, often flecked with brown. Then come the blues... from the pale tones to navy. Blue has always been the best selling shade in Victoria so the prominence of this popular color will make our shoppers happy.

There are a number of suits with a blouse made in the same fabric as the jacket lining. Suit blouses tuck-in... a direct contrast to the overblouse of last season and they offer far less arm and shoulder coverage.

Cloud light fabrics, in everything from silk to tweed, make for the most adaptable suits in years. These are literally suits to span the seasons, starting in the spring and seeing wear the year around at home or travelling.

I have had several telephone calls saying that the coats in last week's illustrations seemed a little shorter. You will no doubt notice the same is true of the suits pictured today. Daytime costumes are being shown a little shorter in New York collections but there is no perceptible change in the news from the Montreal market. Mid-calf is the most acceptable length for Canadian women.

The more feminine suit with soft lines is shown here in two versions for spring, 1956, from top designers. Black and white mixture in imported silk tweed, left, is used for this suit from Paltullo-Jo Copeland. Black bow is set low on paneled jacket front. Herbert Sondheim's grey-beige silk tweed suit, right, has wide, fringed shawl collar. Both suits have slim skirts.

Bigger, Bolder Styles Lead in Hat Fashions

By NADANE WALKER

PARIS (AP)—The cloche and the toque split honors as stars of the new spring hat season in Paris. Bigger, bolder hats are the thing. The little wispy perched on the back of the head is out.

Danish-born Svend's circus collection beats the drums for puffed-up "parade berets," "big tent" cloches, fortune-teller turbans and fezzes, and big "arena" cartwheels.

A favorite decorative touch is a juggler's ball, in straw or felt, balanced just about anywhere on the hat.

Claude St. Cyr's cloches are real buckets that barely let the wearer peek out underneath. Some are beaked a bit in front as an aid to vision.

Equally fond of the cloche and the toque are Jane Blanchot and Denise Chabaud.

White, off-whites, beiges and cocoa shades, pink and coral reds are leading colors this season. Polka-dot chiffons and organdies, horsehair and strawcloths make the new headgear light as a feather, whatever its size.

IN FULL SAIL. Big swaths of veiling have replaced dainty little nose veils. Flower-trimmed hats are often completely covered over with layers of veiling or horsehair for a light, transparent effect.

Offhand, it's an easy prediction that the tall, willowy girl will be pleased and flattered by the new styles, while the little woman will risk looking like a ship in full sail.

Svend even designs a two-in-one cloche in straw with a button-on cover in printed cotton. Some of Blanchot's printed brims are also removable.

Chabaud hats are often shaped like flowers, while St. Cyr models often have flower-petalled brims.

VICTORIANS TO ATTEND

External Affairs Minister Guest Speaker at Congress

Canada's number one diplomat, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Minister of External Affairs, has accepted an invitation to be guest speaker at the seventh biennial Congress of the International Federation of the Business and Professional Women which will be held in Montreal, July 8 to 12.

The congress is under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency, the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Ch., Governor-General of Canada.

More than 1,200 delegates and observers from the 20 countries affiliated to the International Federation are expected to attend.

Miss Margaret Clay, a vice-president of the international federation will go to Montreal for the proceedings and named to represent the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club as observers.

Opening ceremonies are scheduled for Sunday afternoon, July 8, in The Chalet on Mount Royal, following which the City of Montreal will be hosts to the delegates at a reception, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted entirely to business. On Monday there will be a late afternoon visit to the Laurentian Mountain district with buffet suppers at such famed resorts as The Alpine Inn, Chalet Cochand and Chanteciere.

A number of post-congress and pre-congress tours have been planned including one day trips, excursions to the west and overseas as well as visits across the line to New York and Washington.

Arrangements for the congress and entertainment for the delegates are being made by Mrs. Margaret Campbell, Vancouver, immediate past president of Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women and Miss Isabel Menzies, Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian organization.

Following the international congress, the Canadian Federation will hold a two-day convention in Montreal, July 13 and 14, with Mrs. G. R. D. Laycock, Winnipeg, the national president, in the chair.

Dr. Jardine to Speak To Canadian Club Dr. Olga Jardine, recently returned from a 14-month tour of the world, will be speaker at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, Wednesday, at 2:30 p.m. at the Empress Hotel.

Speaking on "Beneath the Southern Cross" she will give members a fascinating picture of her five months spent in Australia and New Zealand.

Dr. Jardine, born in New Zealand, and a graduate of the University there, received her Doctorate of Philosophy in Chemistry and Nutrition at Columbia University, New York. She returned to New Zealand to head the Chemistry and Nutrition Division of the Household Science Department at the University of Otago at Dunedin.

Since coming to Victoria in 1933, Dr. Jardine has been prominent in club life. She has been first vice-president of the Canadian Club; president of the local and provincial Council of Women; president of the local and national YWCA, president of the Women's University Club and first vice-president of the Canadian Federation of University Women.

During her recent trip, Dr. Jardine was one of six Canadian council members at the World YWCA meeting in London.

Clubwomen's News Annual Meeting—Dean Brian Whitlow addressed the James Bay Branch of Christ Church Cathedral Women's Parish Guild and installed new officers at a recent meeting in the Niagara Street Hall. Those inducted were Mrs. J. A. Cottrell, president; Mrs. R. Webster, first vice-president; Mrs. A. E. Rayner, second; Mrs. S. E. Webb, secretary; Mrs. A. Bushby, treasurer; Mrs. C. S. Gonarson, sick visitor; Mrs. H. Wilkinson, Mrs. J. H. Stewart, tea conveners. Mrs. A. J. Parmiter presented retiring president Mrs. M. A. Rayner with a gift.

Kate Aitken Off to Cyprus

A consistent reporter of all the hot spots in world news, Kate Aitken, well-known writer and radio and TV commentator, leaves Jan. 31 for Cyprus, the British crown colony in the Mediterranean.

This troubled area, now the scene of a vast aggregation of British troops, paratroopers and war equipment, will provide Mrs. A. with an eye witness account of what actually is going on.

Included in this trip will also be a visit to Cortina, Italy, scene of the Seventh Winter Olympic Games, where Mrs. A. will personally interview members of the Kitchener-Waterloo D-U-C-H men contesting the world hockey title.

The only woman commentator going from Canada, Mrs. A. is looking forward to a colorful and exciting visit.

Returning to Canada on Feb. 6, Kate Aitken will report from Montreal to her radio audience over the Trans-Canada Network.

6 SAILINGS TO REMEMBER! Enjoy 17-21 vacation days in "Big O" Line Comfort...

AUSTRALIA NEW ZEALAND

The long-lost key to healing

Mr. and Mrs. Raith Sykes of Duncan, tanned and well after a sail to Hawaii, enjoy coffee at the home of Mrs. Sykes' parents, Col. and Mrs. C. H. King, Cadboro Bay Road. "Quite different to elevenies on the ketch," they said, "we used mugs then."

Twenty-Four Day Sail to Hawaii Gives Couple Many Memories

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"It was a wonderful experience. We'd do it again in a moment!" In those few words, Raith and Vivienne Sykes sum up the weeks spent on the 45-foot ketch "Tzu Hang" as they sailed from Victoria to San Francisco and from there to Hawaii.

With Brig. and Mrs. Smeeton, owners of the ketch, and their 15-year-old daughter Clio, the Sykes left Victoria harbor early last September. In 16 days they were in San Francisco Bay where a layover was made at Sausalito. In early October they "pushed off" across the Pacific Ocean and 24 days later were at Hilo in the Hawaiian Islands.

"Once we hit the Trades we simply scorched along," Raith Sykes says, "and it was amazing how the time flew."

He added with pride that the auxiliary engine in the ketch was only used when entering and leaving harbors and on brief occasions when they were becalmed.

ROUTINE FOLLOWED
During the 24-day crossing, the five adventurers kept to an organized routine as much as possible.

Breakfast was at 7 a.m.; elevenies (in this case, fruit juice) in mid-morning; lunch at 12 noon; tea at 3 o'clock and dinner from 5.30 to 6 p.m. Bedtime was around 8 p.m., as watches started then.

Each day Clio "went to school" with Mrs. Sykes as her teacher. Regular school hours were kept and lessons were taken from the correspondence courses.

After school hours saw Mrs. Sykes taking her turn in the galley, with dinners her special assignment. Mrs. Smeeton handled the breakfasts and lunches and took her turn at watches.

The "Tzu Hang" carried a variety of foods. Mrs. Smeeton had done a lot of canning herself. Vivienne Sykes explained, "so we had a choice of chicken, venison, beef, various bottled fruits and even meat balls."

FOOD KEPT WELL
"We carried a side of bacon with us and it kept remarkably well. So did the 12 dozen eggs we bought in San Francisco. In the vegetable line, onions, potatoes and carrots were best."

A big moment in each day was chocolate ration time. "We carried large sized packets of semi-sweet chocolate and also a box of chocolates from San Francisco. It was a big event when we received our shares."

All food was rationed aboard the ketch except the hard-tack. "When we got a bit hungry," Mrs. Sykes says, "we chewed on that and do you know, it tasted jolly good."

"Bread was our worst problem," Mr. Sykes added, "even with special preservative in it, the loaves got harder and harder by the day."

The "Tzu Hang" kept fairly well away from shipping lanes in her crossing ("much more comfortable," Raith remarked) and therefore only saw one freighter during the voyage.

Molly hawks ("big black-foot albatross" is the way the Sykes describe them) accompanied the ketch almost all the way.

"When we were becalmed they swam within two feet of us and the cat had a grand time stalking them. A school of bright colored dolphins accompanied them for a short time, too, and in mid-ocean, a bat came aboard; a tiny blue crab was discovered on the sounding line and a covey of tiny green birds settled down on the sails for a rest.

Aboard the ketch the voyagers lived in shorts. Ashore, cotton dresses and slacks were worn.

WATER A PROBLEM

"Water for washing was the biggest problem on the journey. We were allowed fresh water to brush our teeth, to wash our faces and to cook our vegetables. That was all. Bathing was out—except in the ocean. Washing clothes was kept to a minimum. You can see that the minute we reached Hilo, we rushed for washing machines and bathtubs."

During the hour after dinner, for relaxation the travelers played at games with young Clio. They held spelling contests, acted charades.

"Usually we ended up in gales of laughter," Vivienne Sykes says. "Shouting with laughter, perhaps I should say. If anyone had come across us they would have thought we were crazy."

"We really laughed our way across the Pacific," Raith added with a grin.

The Sykes flew home from Hawaii last weekend after spending the past few months cruising aboard the "Tzu Hang" in the sunny islands. The Smeetons will stay among the islands until spring and then perhaps go on to Samoa.

Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, IODE, luncheon, Poodle Dog Cafe, Government Street, Thursday, 12.30 p.m., followed by annual meeting and election of officers.

CHRISTENED ON BOARD SHIP

The tiny, three-month-old daughter of PO. and Mrs. John B. Crozier Smith, 1669 Myrtle street, received the names, Debra Lynn in a ceremony held recently. Padre H. Todd officiated. Godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Norman McClellan of Victoria. A reception followed in the wardroom of HMCS Athabaskan.

Rev. Staley 'Installs Church WA Executive

Rev. E. J. Staley installed newly-elected officers of Garden City United Church Women's Association at the annual meeting as follows: Mrs. W. R. Curry, president; Mrs. W. B. Peach, vice-president; Mrs. M. Alexander, secretary; Mrs. S. A. Brasher, treasurer; Honorary presidents are Mrs. E. Wilson and Mrs. E. J. Staley.

Other officers are Mrs. T. Crosland, press secretary; Mrs. P. Woodward, Mrs. E. Kilner, social conveners; Mrs. E. Ricalton, Mrs. R. Grieve, sick visiting conveners. Mrs. T. Crosland, pianist.

Arrangements for a pot luck supper preceding the annual congregational meeting Feb. 10, were made. It was planned to have a St. Patrick's Tea in the church on March 13. Major events for the year will be a garden party in June and the annual bazaar in October. Mrs. E. Ricalton reported 32 sick visits made this month.

Retiring president Mrs. E. Wilson, and retiring treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Tibby, were presented with brooches.

Hostesses were Mrs. M. Alexander, Mrs. S. A. Brasher and Mrs. W. R. Curry.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Party for Elspeth Macdonald

Miss Elspeth Macdonald will be guest of honor tonight at a no-host party at the home of Major and Mrs. Cuthbert Holmes and Mr. Vincent Holmes, 336 Newport avenue. Miss Macdonald has come from London, Eng., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Macdonald for a month. Invited guests include Miss Adele Gault, Dr. John Henry Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Simpson, Mr. Ronald Grant, Mr. George McMillin, Miss Anna Wootton, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. B. Cupples, Mr. Gerald Coultas, Miss Terry Henderson, Mr. John Gault, Mr. Robert Haldane, Miss Terry French, Mr. John Pearkes, Miss Kitty Dixon, Mr. Richard Pollard, Mr. and Mrs. John McIlree, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hemeon, Mr. Robin Terry, Mr. and Mrs. John Porteous, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Liersch.

Quiet Wedding Ceremony

In a quiet ceremony in St. John's Anglican Chapel on Wednesday evening, "Robbie Burns Night," Nellie Stickney, of Victoria, exchanged wedding vows with Alexander Smith, of Colwood. Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony, which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Smith and Sheila, and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Carlson, of Victoria. The bride wore a grey suit with navy accessories, a black cape, navy hat with white feathers and a gardenia and rosebud corsage. She was attended by Mrs. Carlson, who wore a grey suit with mauve accessories and yellow carnation corsage. Best man was Victor Smith. A reception was held at 1896 Townley street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith. The wedding cake which centred the bride's table was decorated with white bells and a large tulip bow. Victor Smith proposed the toast to the bride's future happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will live at Colwood, B.C.

Party for Lorraine Rowan

Many guests gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Skillings, 3138 Westdowne Road, Friday evening to honor bride-elect, Miss Lorraine Rowan, with a grocery shower. A corsage of pink carnations and heather was presented to the guest of honor, while her mother, Mrs. J. R. Rowan, received white carnations and heather in corsage. ## FAMILY HERALD EDITOR DIES

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Maud Mary Kerr, 63, women's editor of the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star, died Friday after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Kerr was widely known throughout Canada through her close association with women's groups.

Exhibits Admired By Weavers' Guild

Ten yards of Harris pattern tweed, woven on a worsted warp by Miss Marjorie Hill was on display at meeting of Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild. Miss Hill arranged the tweed to show the contrast between finished and unfinished material.

Another exhibit featured part of an old bedspread in Whig Rose pattern, woven at Clinton, B.C. in 1875 and brought to Victoria in 1887. It is now in possession of a Victoria family.

A spinning wheel presented to the guild by Miss Kathleen Agnew was also on exhibition. It will be at the home of Mrs. D. E. Redden for the use of members.

A. W. Mooney reported cash on hand as $110.88. Miss Violet Ashdown reported on books she had reviewed. It was decided that the guild purchase three books: "Designing on the Loom" by Mary Black and two illustrated Swedish books, as a memorial to the late Frances Clarke.

New member, Mrs. J. Moffat was introduced. Mrs. J. Keele, a weaver from Cariboo, and two visitors, Mrs. L. Knight and Mrs. B. Reeves of Victoria, were welcomed. Members discussed prices and plans for the exhibition at the Empress Hotel, to be held July 4 to 7.

Constable and Mrs. Kinloch Wed in Vancouver Church

A wedding of interest to Victoria took place recently in Vancouver's Canadian Memorial Chapel, when Miss Shirley Constance Oates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Oates, 3069 W. 16th Avenue, Vancouver, became the bride of Constable Donald George Kinloch, RCMP, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Kinloch, 428 Richmond Avenue, Victoria.

Rev. James G. Gorwill officiated at the afternoon ceremony. Mrs. MacDonald Porter was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an imported gown of rose-patterned white lace and nylon tulle over satin. Her bouffant skirt of tulle was inset with two horizontal panels of lace. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with lily point sleeves, and the sheer tulle neckline and lace petal mandarin collar were encrusted with seed pearls.

A lace tiara held her fingertip veil of illusion net edged with lace. Her bridal bouquet was of gardenias and white freesia.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Frank Kennedy, matron of honor; Mrs. James Kinloch, bridesmatron, and Bonnie Kinloch, flower girl. Senior attendants wore cocktail length gowns of white taffeta styled with full skirts, and round necklines. They wore white hand-embroidered with small veils, and carried red carnations. Flower girls wore a short dress of pastel blue. She carried red carnations and white freesia in a colonial bouquet.

Best man was Const. Stephen Bunyk, RCMP, and ushers were Const. E. Trewella, RCMP, and Mr. W. H. Purse, RCAF.

A reception followed at The Hollies, where Mr. J. H. Williams proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to California, the bride wore a charcoal-brown dress with black accessories and a coral poodle-clip coat.

Const. and Mrs. Kinloch will live in North Vancouver.

Million Africans Greet Royal Pair

Queens Opens Three-Week Nigeria Tour
After Wild Welcome From Gigantic Crowd

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters)—A million Africans roared greetings to Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh beneath a sweltering midday sun today at the start of the three-week royal tour of Nigeria.

The Queen, shaded by a cream parasol and looking cool in a pink-and-white silk dress, drove through the narrow, twisting streets of Lagos in a maroon Rolls Royce.

Queen Elizabeth and the duke arrived by air just before 10 a.m. for their visit to this British protectorate and colony which has never before been visited by a sovereign.

Along part of the 14-mile beflagged route from the airport to government house, the gigantic crowd danced and swayed to the rhythm of African drums.

FLOWER GIRL FALLS

A little girl who was supposed to hand a bouquet to the Queen was so overcome by nervousness that her legs folded under her and she did a somersault. The Queen quickly grasped the bouquet and the tot scrambled to her feet.

Chief Oka Adeniji-Adela II, whose family has ruled in Lagos for 260 years, told the Queen that the city had reaped the benefits of British sovereignty.

FORGOT THEIR CARPET TACKS

LONDON (AP)—Even royal arrangements sometimes go astray.

Three packages were hurriedly flown out to Nigeria today after officials discovered that they were needed for Queen Elizabeth's tour of that west African colony.

Their contents: Six car shields bearing the royal coat of arms, presentation book and a big box of carpet tacks.

until today "it can proudly claim to be one of the jewels in Your Majesty's realms and territories."

The 63-year-old chief, resplendent in a robe of red, blue and gold, has five wives and 25 children.

Cup Champs Move Into Fifth Round

LONDON (UPI)—Newcastle, the defending champion, reached the fifth round of the Football Association Challenge Cup today with a 5-4 victory over Fulham.

Newcastle built up a 3-1 half-time lead and then had to battle to the last minute against a desperate Fulham rally which wound up a goal short.

Sunderland, one of the big teams of the first division, and underdog York City of the third division, battled to a scoreless tie.

It was one of five ties played today in the fourth Challenge Cup round.

Chelsea, last year's first division champion, battled to a 1-1 tie with Burnley on the latter's grounds. Arsenal eliminated Aston Villa, six-time winner of the trophy, 4-1.

Despite heavy rains and quagmire fields, there were only a few upsets. Scunthorpe, the only team beside York remaining from the third division, battled second division Liverpool to a 3-3 tie.

Premier Bennett's target for bringing down his budget, and there will be no change in schedule, if the House has to sit all night Monday and Tuesday or Thursday.

Seven speakers will take part in the Throne debate Monday, according to the tight schedule drawn up by party whips. They are Bruce Brown (Lib-Prince Rupert), Bert Price (SC-Vancouver-Burrard), William Moore (CCF-Comox), Trade Minister Ralph Chetwynd, Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC-Victoria), Frank Calder (CCF-Atlin) and George Tomlinson (SC-North Vancouver).

FILIBUSTER FAILS
A Liberal M.L.A. Bruce Brown, threatened a one-man filibuster Friday in an effort to head off gruelling night sittings. Brown spoke against a motion for night sittings introduced by Premier Bennett.

"Our constituents pay us to do a good job," said Brown. "It is not physically or mentally possible to give our attention to the bills when we are asked to come back for four or five hours at night."

Brown said he was willing to stay in Victoria for "80 days, if necessary," to conduct the business of the session. "There is no valid reason for night sittings, except the government wants to get rid of us," he said. CCF members voted with the Liberals on the vote, but Social Credit members supported the motion.

PREMIER NIKOLAI BULGANIN
... told to "show by action ... really want peace."

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER
... blames Russians for world tension.

Eisenhower Offers 'Hand of Friendship' In Reply to Bulganin

(UP and AP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower today offered Russia a four-point "hand of friendship" peace plan in turning down a Soviet offer of a 20-year U.S.-Russian friendship treaty.

In friendly but unmistakable language, the President said the proposals in Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter Wednesday "might indeed work against the cause of peace."

(Diplomatic sources here believe the President consulted Britain's Sir Anthony Eden, due to reach New York Monday, before replying to Bulganin. Text of the Soviet premier's letter was wirelessly to Eden aboard the liner Queen Mary shortly after its receipt in Washington.)

The White House this afternoon made public Bulganin's message to the President, Eisenhower's reply and the draft of a friendly treaty which the Soviet premier had enclosed. Bulganin proposed that the United States and Russia agree "in conformity with the provisions of the charter of the United Nations to settle all their international disputes by peaceful means."

Eisenhower told Bulganin a "vast change would be effected not only in our relations but throughout the entire world" if there were:

1. "Prompt measures to reunify Germany in freedom within the framework of security ..."

2. Carried through "our wartime pledge to respect the right of peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live ..."

3. Mutual opening of Russia and the United States to inspection so that the possibilities "of surprise attack would vanish" and release of productive power for betterment of mankind "if reductions or armament were made practical."

4. Free exchange of news, information, visits and ideas between the two countries to clear up "the mountain of distrust and misunderstanding" between the two.

Bulganin told the President, "that an improvement in Soviet-American relations is urgently needed. In my opinion this purpose could be served by the conclusion of a treaty of friendship and co-operation between our countries."

"Such a treaty could make provision for the parties ... to develop and strengthen the friendly relations between the people of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. on the principles of equal rights, mutual respect for state sovereignty and non-interference in internal affairs, and to settle all their international disputes, in accordance with the provisions of the UN charter, by peaceful means alone."

The treaty might also provide for the agreement of the parties to co-operate in developing and strengthening economic, cultural, and scientific co-operation between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. ... on the principle of mutual advantage and equality of rights."

"I am genuinely convinced,"

Bulganin, in his letter, asserted that co-operation between the Soviet Union and the United States is natural and desirable despite what he termed "serious disagreements" that have arisen in the course of the cold war.

Asserting that "under existing conditions international tension is fraught with the possibility of breaking the peace," Bulganin said it is more important than ever that disputes between countries be settled peacefully "in harmony with the aims and principles of the United Nations."

7 in Family Shot to Death

PARSIPPANY - TROY HILLS, N.J. (AP)—Seven members of the William Weaver family were found shot to death today in a suburban housing development in this residential community.

Preliminary investigation indicated there had been six murders and a suicide, police said. The youngest of the victims was described as a 20-month-old baby.

Police had no details, but a patrolman said there "were a lot of people lying around."

Gonzales Observatory reported 2.3 inches of snow between 4:30 and 10:30 a.m. today. In the same period Patricia Bay Airport checked 0.3 inch; Nanaimo and Comox, traces; and Vancouver, 0.1 inch.

New West Coast Road Dangerous Says MLA

CCF MLA John Squire complained Friday the public will not be allowed to use during the daytime the Tofino-Alberni road now being constructed in part by firms holding forest management licences.

Mr. Squire, MLA for Alberni, said the minister of highways last year stated the road would be full 24-foot wide, "and now we hear from the contractor they are going to be 18-foot gravel surface roads with 14-foot bunks."

He said the policy of having forest management licence holders build "public" roads is "for the birds."

"This road was going to be part of our provincial highway system," said Mr. Squire. "We were told these firms were the benefactors of the public."

"The people on the West Coast have been waiting for that road since 1890, they gave away half the country to get it, and now they are going to put up with an 18-foot width."

More Snow Forecast For City Sunday

Some of the most treacherous driving conditions of the year faced Victoria and island motorists today as snow fell lightly through the day on streets and roads already chilled by sub-freezing temperatures of the last four days.

The professional drivers advised all motorists heading westward to use chains.

Sanding speeded

Highways department crews rushed all available sanding equipment to work in the district, but actual clearing of snow was required only on a portion of the Sooke road, where about three inches of snow had accumulated.

In Sooke proper the snow reached blizzard proportions, and many cars had trouble climbing even the gentlest grades along the highway through the village.

Despite the unsafe conditions, and numerous minor collisions and skids, city and district police were able to report "no accidents" at press time today.

Mr. Mackie said Vancouver Island is on the boundary line between cold Arctic air and mild Pacific air.

"We don't expect a major fall tonight or Sunday," he said. Temperatures between now and Sunday will range between 32 and 37 degrees.

Russ Atomic Weapons for 'Red NATO'?

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov hinted here today that Russia is ready to arm its "Red NATO" allies of eastern Europe with atomic weapons.

Molotov made the hint at a meeting of the eight-nation Warsaw pact consultative committee which admitted East Germany's new army to full membership.

The Soviet foreign minister brought up the western NATO's decision of last year to equip its member armies with tactical atomic weapons.

The western decision, Molotov said, "compels us, in order to support international peace and security, to consider the question of joint measures out of their Warsaw pact intended to widen the coordination of efforts and increase the defence capacity of the participating states."

Russia already is shipping peacetime atomic equipment to its allies.

Truman, Mrs. FDR
Ask Israel Arms

NEW YORK (UP)—Former president Harry S. Truman and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a joint statement, said today that the shipment of Soviet arms to the Middle East "requires that the United States provide the defensive arms needed by Israel to protect itself against any aggression."

"I am genuinely convinced,"

Bulganin, in his letter, asserted that co-operation between the Soviet Union and the United States is natural and desirable despite what he termed "serious disagreements" that have arisen in the course of the cold war.

Deeds, Not Words, Key to Peace

Eisenhower said in reply that "the present state of international tension" has been brought about by the Russians and "was not prevented by the words of the (United Nations) charter."

"How can we hope that the present situation would be cured merely by repeating those words (of the charter) in a bilateral form?" the president asked Bulganin.

He went on to say: "I wonder whether again going through a treaty-making procedure, and this time on a bilateral basis only, might indeed work against the cause of peace by causing the illusion that a stroke of a pen had achieved a result which in fact can be obtained only by a change of spirit."

Eisenhower then called on the Russians to show by their actions that they really want peace.

The president's message was cabled Friday night to the U.S. ambassador Charles Bohlen in Moscow and delivered personally by him today to the acting foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko.

In these and other ways, the president said, the United States is "prepared at any moment to move in a spirit of conciliation."

"May I hope," Eisenhower told the Soviet leader, "from your letter that you, too, are dedicated to these great ends? I shall look forward to receiving a further expression of your views."

Nanaimo, Whitehorse Cities Tallest Totem Shareholders

The city of Nanaimo, Victoria's friendly rival on Vancouver Island, became a shareholder today in the world's tallest totem pole.

A Nanaimo admirer picked up a certificate for 50 cents and had it made out in the name of the city. The only other city so far that has become an official shareholder is Whitehorse in the Yukon Territory.

The totem fund jumped to $2,303.50 Friday which means more than 4,000 individual shareholders.

Application for shares may be made by mail or they may be obtained directly at the downtown office of the Times on Broad Street or at 2631 Douglas.

First entry in the totem coloring contest is open to children who have not reached their 10th birthday. Prizes are $10 for first, $7 for second, $5 for third and three $1 prizes, plus a share certificate for each prize winner.

For kiddies who did not clip out the totem design in Wednesday's paper, there are a limited number of extra copies available free at the Times circulation department, by using the following:

I, _____ hereby apply for one extra copy of totem design for the coloring contest.

Entries close Feb. 18.

The essay contest, for children under 15, will take longer.

The entries for this close Feb. 29. Essays are to be no longer than 300 words and the subject is "What I think the legend of the totem is." It should be based on the figures shown in the design printed on Wednesday.

Prizes are $35 for first, $15 for second, $10 for third, and eight $5 prizes, with an honorary share in the totem for each prize winner.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O THOU great Creator, may we be thankful to thee for the winter season. We rejoice in the calm, cold, starry nights, when in immeasurable space we can behold thy creation on its grandest scale. We rejoice, too, in snow covered mountains and valleys, vast stretches reminding us of Thy purity and challenging ours. In worshipful adoration we turn to Thee; in Jesus' name. Amen.

U.S. REJECTS SOVIET PACT

PEARSON DEFINES OUR FOREIGN POLICY

Canada's new role on the world scene is outlined by Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Secretary of State for External Affairs, in a special article in Weekend Magazine today entitled, "This Is Our Foreign Policy."

FINAL BULLETINS

Canada's Hockey Team Wins 3-1

CORTINA, Italy (CP)—Scoring two goals in the third period Canada defeated Italy 3-1 in a thrill-packed Olympic hockey battle here tonight.

Tied 1-1 after two periods of rough, tough hockey Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen rallied in the final 20 minutes for their third straight victory.

Sweden defeated Switzerland 6-5.

Marlene Stewart Beaten 1 Up

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UP)—Pert Joanne Goodwin, the 19-year-old golfing whiz from Dartmouth, Mass., upset medalist Marlene Stewart 1 up in a spectacular nip-and-tuck battle today to win her way into the finals of the Doherty women's amateur tournament.

The 1-up victory put Miss Goodwin into the 36-hole championship round Sunday against Cookie Swift Berger of Buffalo, N.Y.

More Snow Smothers Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (UP)—Snow during the past 24 hours has dumped another seven inches on the already well-buried city of Winnipeg to set a new record. The total snowfall so far this winter stands at 70.2 inches.

Red NATO Bucks A-Guns for Germans

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Russia and her Communist East European allies today called on the Western nations to join them in an agreement to solve differences and conflicts between East and West "only by peaceful means."

The eight Communist nations of the Warsaw Pact also proposed that the armed forces of both West Germany and East Germany should not have atomic arms.

Tree Kills Youth Trapped in Snow

BURNS LAKE, B.C. (CP)—George Wiebe of Grassy Plains died in hospital today on his 19th birthday from injuries suffered when a tree fell on him in this village on the rim of Tweedsmuir Park.

Wiebe and his brother were standing together watching a bulldozer push down trees. One tree fell on George as both youths fled through deep snow. The brother escaped injury.

1,040 Scouts in Jamboree Airlift

VANCOUVER (CP)—A contingent of 1,040 Canadian Boy Scouts and leaders will attend the 1957 world jamboree in Sutton Coldfield, Eng. it was announced here today.

Deputy Chief Scout-Jackson Dobbs said the contingent will be flown to England in chartered planes and will spend 10 days at the jamboree and an extra week sight-seeing.

Legislature Starts Night Sitzings Monday

B.C. Legislature will sit Monday night for the first night sitting of the current session, as the drive starts to end the Throne Speech debate by Wednesday or Thursday.

One of those days is Premier Bennett's target for bringing down his budget, and there will be no change in schedule, if the House has to sit all night Monday and Tuesday.

Million Africans Greet Royal Pair

Queens Opens Three-Week Nigeria Tour After Wild Welcome From Gigantic Crowd

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters)—A million Africans roared greetings to Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh beneath a sweltering midday sun today at the start of the three-week royal tour of Nigeria.

The Queen, shaded by a cream parasol and looking cool in a pink-and-white silk dress, drove through the narrow, twisting streets of Lagos in a maroon Rolls Royce.

Queen Elizabeth and the duke arrived by air just before 10 a.m. for their visit to this British protectorate and colony which has never before been visited by a sovereign.

Along part of the 14-mile beflagged route from the airport to government house, the gigantic crowd danced and swayed to the rhythm of African drums.

A little girl who was supposed to hand a bouquet to the Queen was so overcome by nervousness that her legs folded under her and she did a somersault. The Queen quickly grasped the bouquet and the tot scrambled to her feet.

Chief Oka Adeniji-adela II, whose family has ruled in Lagos for 260 years, told the Queen that the city had reaped the benefits of British sovereignty until today "it can proudly claim to be one of the jewels in Your Majesty's realms and territories."

The 63-year-old chief, resplendent in a robe of red, blue and gold, has five wives and 25 children.

The Duke was fascinated by an enormous gold-colored umbrella held over the chief. He stopped to admire the chief's gift and crimson crown and his horse's tail switch before following the Queen to a decorated pavilion where white-capped hereditary princes of Lagos bowed their welcome.

Commenting on a Vancouver report that a plan for a $30,000,000 tunnel will be presented to the cabinet next week, Mr. Gagliardi said "there have been several suggestions."

He said a report from consulting engineers recommended either a tunnel or bridge.

"And they left it up to me to make a decision," he said.

The South Arm crossing will be a major link in the government's proposed expressway to the U.S. border.

Mr. Gagliardi would not confirm the $30,000,000 price tag.

PISTOL-PACKING MAMA

Mrs. Roslyn Freeborn of Lake Serene, Wash., packs a holstered .22-calibre target pistol at her hip as she does her household chores. The community near Seattle has been turned into an "armed camp" following a number of attacks on women and burglaries. Even David Jones, eight, a neighbor youth, shoulders an air rifle.

More Snow Forecast For City Sunday

Some of the most treacherous driving conditions of the year faced Victoria and Island motorists today as snow fell lightly through the day on streets and roads already chilled by sub-freezing temperatures of the last four days.

Weatherman William Mackie predicted more snow Sunday afternoon and evening.

"Most of our precipitation between now and Sunday night will be snow," he said, "but there may be a little rain at times."

Gonzales Observatory reported 2.3 inches of snow between 4.30 and 10.30 a.m. today. In the same period Patricia Bay Airport checked 0.3 inch; Nanaimo and Comox, traces; and Vancouver, 0.1 inch.

Island Freight Service and Vancouver Island Coach Lines reported only about one inch of snow over the Malahat and north to Duncan and Nanaimo, but said roads were icy and dangerous.

The professional drivers advised all motorists heading up Island to use chains.

Highways department crews rushed all available sanding equipment to work in the district, but actual clearing of snow was required only on a portion of the Sooke road, where about three inches of snow had accumulated.

In Sooke proper the snow reached blizzard proportions, and many cars had trouble climbing even the gentlest grades along the highway through the village.

Despite the unsafe conditions, and numerous minor collisions and skids, city and district police were able to report "no accidents" at press time today.

Mr. Mackie said Vancouver Island is on the boundary line between cold Arctic air and mild Pacific air.

"We don't expect a major fall tonight or Sunday," he said. Temperatures between now and Sunday will range between 32 and 37 degrees.

The city of Nanaimo, Victoria's friendly rival on Vancouver Island, became a shareholder today in the world's tallest totem pole.

A Nanaimo admirer picked up a certificate for 50 cents and had it made out in the name of the city. The only other city so far that has become an official shareholder is Whitehorse in the Yukon Territory.

The totem fund jumped to $2,303.50 Friday which means more than 4,000 individual shareholders.

Application for shares may be made by mail or they may be obtained directly at the down town office of the Times on Broad Street or at 2631 Douglas.

First entry in the totem coloring contest announced on Thursday, was received today. The coloring contest is open to children who have not reached their 10th birthday. Prizes are $10 for first, $7 for second, $5 for third and three $1 prizes, plus a share certificate for each prize winner.

For kiddies who did not clip out the totem design in Wednesday's paper, there are a limited number of extra copies available free at the Times circulation department, by using the following:

Deeds, Not Words, Key to Peace, Bulganin Told

(UP and AP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower today offered Russia a four-point "hand of friendship" peace plan in turning down a Soviet offer of a 20-year U.S.-Russian friendship treaty.

In friendly but unmistakable language, the President said the proposals in Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter Wednesday "might indeed work against the cause of peace."

(Diplomatic sources here believe the President consulted Britain's Sir Anthony Eden, due to reach New York Monday, before replying to Bulganin. Text of the Soviet premier's letter was wirelessly to Eden aboard the liner Queen Mary shortly after its receipt in Washington.) The White House this afternoon made public Bulganin's message to the President, Eisenhower's reply and the draft of a friendly treaty which the Soviet premier had enclosed.

Bulganin proposed that the United States and Russia agree "in conformity with the provisions of the charter of the United Nations to settle all their international disputes by peaceful means."

This was the same procedure followed by the Soviets, who had Bulganin's letter to the president delivered by ambassador Georgi Zarubin here last Wednesday.

Eisenhower told Bulganin a "vast change would be effected not only in our relations but throughout the entire world" if there were:

1. "Prompt measures to reunify Germany in freedom within the framework of security..."

2. Carried through "our wartime pledge to respect the right of peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live..."

3. Mutual opening of Russia and the United States to inspection so that the possibilities of surprise attack would vanish, and release of productive power for betterment of mankind "if reductions or armaments were made practical."

4. Free exchange of news, information, visits and ideas between the two countries to clear up "the mountain of distrust and misunderstanding" between the two.

Bulganin told the president, "that an improvement in Soviet-American relations is urgently needed. In my opinion this purpose could be served by the conclusion of a treaty of friendship and co-operation between our countries."

"Such a treaty could make provision for the parties... to develop and strengthen the friendly relations between the people of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. on the principles of equal rights, mutual respect for state sovereignty and non-interference in internal affairs, and to settle all their international disputes in accordance with the provisions of the U.N. charter, by peaceful means alone."

"The treaty might also provide for the agreement of the parties to co-operate in developing and strengthening economic, cultural, and scientific co-operation between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. ... on the principle of mutual advantage and equality of rights."

"I am genuinely convinced,"

Bulganin, in his letter, asserted that co-operation between the Soviet Union and the United States is natural and desirable despite what he termed "serious disagreements" that have arisen in the course of the cold war.

Asserting that "under existing conditions international tension is fraught with the possibility of breaking the peace," Bulganin said it is more important than ever that disputes between countries be settled peacefully "in harmony with the aims and principles of the United Nations."
